

Common Spelling Errors

In each of the sentences below, there is a spelling error, or maybe two, three or four - you will have to look closely. The errors are based on the ones we find most often in pupils' schoolwork!

1. "Oh, it's no problem. I'm sure we can accomadate your mother's chihuahua if it really must sleep on her bed." I was releived, that was one problem solved.
2. "I can't beleive you didn't write it on the calender! You know I can't remeber anything unless it is written down," Lucy sobbed.
3. Ursula was sure that other people would think she was completley insane, but nevertheless, she was going to go into the cemetary at midnight and look for ghosts.
4. It was a most bizzarre gift and Alistair could not help but feel dissapointed. He definately did not want a pink umberella with matching handbag.
5. It was no suprise to Cilla. She had herd her husband talk about going to Athens many times, so when he came home with the plane tickets, she just raised her eyebrows.
6. When the man refered to her dog as a 'rat on a lead', it was the last straw.
7. Graham was persistant in his pursuit of the jewel. He would not rest until it was in his possession.
8. "I thought you had more sence than to go to a cemetry at night," retorted Ursula's aunt.
9. "Whoever wins the general knowlege quiz," anounced Mrs Walker, "will be let off homework for the rest of the term."
10. "Give Tim the rest of the spuds," whispered Gertrude. "He's the only on who dosent mind peeling them!"

Common Spelling Errors Answers

In each of the sentences below, there is a spelling error, or maybe two, three or four - you will have to look closely. The errors are based on the ones we find most often in pupils' schoolwork!

1. "Oh, it's no problem. I'm sure we can accommodate your mother's chihuahua if it really must sleep on her bed." I was relieved, that was one problem solved.
2. "I can't believe you didn't write it on the calendar! You know I can't remember anything unless it is written down," Lucy sobbed.
3. Ursula was sure that other people would think she was completely insane, but nevertheless, she was going to go into the cemetery at midnight and look for ghosts.
4. It was a most bizarre gift and Alistair could not help but feel disappointed. He definitely did not want a pink umbrella with matching handbag.
5. It was no surprise to Cilla. She had heard her husband talk about going to Athens many times, so when he came home with the plane tickets, she just raised her eyebrows.
6. When the man referred to her dog as a 'rat on a lead', it was the last straw.
7. Graham was persistent in his pursuit of the jewel. He would not rest until it was in his possession.
8. "I thought you had more sense than to go to a cemetery at night," retorted Ursula's aunt.
9. "Whoever wins the general knowledge quiz," announced Mrs Walker, "will be let off homework for the rest of the term."
10. "Give Tim the rest of the spuds," whispered Gertrude. "He's the only one who doesn't mind peeling them."

Common Spelling Errors

In each of the sentences below, there is a spelling error, or maybe two, three or four - you will have to look closely. The errors are based on the ones we find most often in pupils' schoolwork!

1. Ben Sharp seemed like such a successful businessman. It never occurred to anyone that he could be hiding a dark secret.
2. It was noticeable that the twins kept themselves separate from the rest of the pupils in school.
3. Unfortunately, because of his criminal past, the newspapers followed Cronsky wherever he went.
4. We didn't know which way was best to publicly announce that Hayley was leaving for good.
5. Are children really grateful for all the gifts they receive at Christmas?
6. The aggressive voice drew nearer and it became clear that Mr Sprock was determined to harass all the staff in the shop and make his problems everyone's business.
7. The mayor promised to have a word with his colleagues on the planning committee to persuade them to approve plans to build a massive car park.
8. Jamie crept up to the front door. All his senses were screaming at him to 'Go back, go back'.
9. The car started first time which was definitely an improvement.
10. Kathleen was ready for a sit down and a cup of tea. She had had enough of the constant rain.

Common Spelling Errors Answers

In each of the sentences below, there is a spelling error, or maybe two, three or four - you will have to look closely. The errors are based on the ones we find most often in pupils' schoolwork!

1. Ben Sharp seemed like such a successful businessman. It never occurred to anyone that he could be hiding a dark secret.
2. It was noticeable that the twins kept themselves separate from the rest of the pupils in school.
3. Unfortunately, because of his criminal past, the newspapers followed Cronsby wherever he went.
4. We didn't know which way was best to publicly announce that Hayley was leaving for good.
5. Are children really grateful for all the gifts they receive at Christmas?
6. The aggressive voice drew nearer and it became clear that Mr Sprock was determined to harass all the staff in the shop and make his problems everyone's business.
7. The mayor promised to have a word with his colleagues on the planning committee to persuade them to approve plans to build a massive car park.
8. Jamie crept up to the front door. All his senses were screaming at him to 'Go back, go back'.
9. The car started first time which was definitely an improvement.
10. Kathleen was ready for a sit down and a cup of tea. She had had enough of the constant rain.

Common Spelling Errors

In each of the sentences below, there is a spelling error, or maybe two, three or four - you will have to look closely. The errors are based on the ones we find most often in pupils' schoolwork!

1. Basicly, Francine didn't like Stacey because she thought she was not glamorous enough to be part of the group.
2. Who would beleive that she had ridden her motorbike accross the Gobi Desert?
3. At last, just when the passengers were beginning to think he wasn't comeing, the captain put in an apearance.
4. The wind ripped the branch from the tree and seemed to throw it down. It smacked Mitch on the forehead and nocked him unconsius.
5. It was time to dissappear: if she was seen in this dress, it would be plain embarassing!
6. Charlotte hoped that tommorrow would be a better day once she was back in a familier place.
7. Her consience pricked; she was truly sorry for what she had done.
8. The dificulty lay in the position of the wasp nest - it was so high up, it was almost impossable to reach it.
9. Somehow, there was never any suitable acomoddation available when Kerry needed it.
10. Unfortunately, it was necessary to interupt the show to anounce that the leading lady had been taken seriously ill.

Common Spelling Errors Answers

In each of the sentences below, there is a spelling error, or maybe two, three or four - you will have to look closely. The errors are based on the ones we find most often in pupils' schoolwork!

1. Basically, Francine didn't like Stacey because she thought she was not glamorous enough to be part of the group.
2. Who would believe that she had ridden her motorbike across the Gobi Desert?
3. At last, just when the passengers were beginning to think he wasn't coming, the captain put in an appearance.
4. The wind ripped the branch from the tree and seemed to throw it down. It smacked Mitch on the forehead and knocked him unconscious.
5. It was time to disappear: if she was seen in this dress, it would be plain embarrassing!
6. Charlotte hoped that tomorrow would be a better day once she was back in a familiar place.
7. Her conscience pricked; she was truly sorry for what she had done.
8. The difficulty lay in the position of the wasp nest - it was so high up, it was almost impossible to reach it.
9. Somehow, there was never any suitable accommodation available when Kerry needed it.
10. Unfortunately, it was necessary to interrupt the show to announce that the leading lady had been taken seriously ill.

Common Spelling Errors

In each of the sentences below, there is a spelling error, or maybe two, three or four - you will have to look closely. The errors are based on the ones we find most often in pupils' schoolwork!

1. "Is it possable that you were an acessory to this crime?" The policeman gave me a questioning look and his tone was serios.
2. Can you reccomend a good, but not too expensive, restarant in this area?
3. Some people think that goverment interferance is a good thing; some think it doesn't work.
4. My gran is generaly a very independant person, but as she gets older, it becomes more dificult.
5. Just as the matron started her adress, she was interupted by a message from one of her staff.
6. On this very special ocassion, it is my priveledge to present the award for silliest hat to Justin Beiber!
7. I got the call: "You must come immediatly. Bring nothing but what you deem to be absolutly neccessary." I was scared.
8. I'd won! I'd won! I was in extasy! My dreams had finally come true.
9. That, unfortunatly, was not the most successfull match we'd ever played. A score line of ten-nil just about says it all.
10. The pupils desided to form a commitee to complain about the terrable school dinners.

Common Spelling Errors Answers

In each of the sentences below, there is a spelling error, or maybe two, three or four - you will have to look closely. The errors are based on the ones we find most often in pupils' schoolwork!

1. "Is it possible that you were an accessory to this crime?" The policeman gave me a questioning look and his tone was serious.
2. Can you recommend a good, but not too expensive, restaurant in this area?
3. Some people think that government interference is a good thing; some think it doesn't work.
4. My gran is generally a very independent person, but as she gets older, it becomes more difficult.
5. Just as the matron started her address, she was interrupted by a message from one of her staff.
6. On this very special occasion, it is my privilege to present the award for silliest hat to Justin Bieber!
7. I got the call: "You must come immediately, bring nothing but what you deem to be absolutely necessary." I was scared.
8. I'd won! I'd won! I was in ecstasy! My dreams had finally come true.
9. That, unfortunately, was not the most successful match we'd ever played. A score line of ten-nil just about says it all.
10. The pupils decided to form a committee to complain about the terrible school dinners.