Types of Sentences

What is a statement?

Statements are sentences which tell you something. They end with a full stop. For example:

It will snow later today.

What is a question?

Questions are sentences that ask you something. They end with a question mark.

For example:

Where are you going?

What is a command?

Commands are sentences that tell you to do something. They usually end with a full stop. For example:

Mix the batter thoroughly.

What is an exclamation?

An exclamation is a sentence beginning with 'What' or 'How'. It is a full sentence which ends with an exclamation mark. For example:

What wonderful children they are!

1 What is the function of the following sentences?

How amazing your painting is

We are visting Gran tomorrow

What is your favourite sweet

Put your books away now

 Don't forget to bring your towel, will you
 What fun we had on the slides
 Would you like to go swimming again next week

Sentences and Clauses

What is a main clause?

A main clause (or it could be called a simple sentence) is a group of words that expresses one complete thought. Every main clause must contain a subject and a verb. They can also be called independent clauses. For example:

He ran.

What is a subordinate clause?

Subordinate clauses do not make sense on their own (they are dependent) but when they are used with a main clause, they create a complex (multi-clause) sentence, such as:

He ran after school every day.

What is a relative clause?

Relative clauses are a different type of dependent (or subordinate) clause that give more detail about the subject of the main clause. They begin with a relative pronoun:

who

whose whom

that where

- 1 Label each of the clauses in the sentence below as either main (M) or subordinate (S).

When we woke up, we rushed into the garden and we made a big snowman.

I'm feeling hungry because I've done lots of exercise this afternoon .

6 Underline the relative clause in the sentence below.

The swimming pool that has fast water slides is closed for refurbishments.

Noun Phrases

What is a noun phrase?

A noun phrase is a noun and the words that modify it, such as determiners/articles, which act as a noun together in a sentence. For example:

the bear

What is an expanded noun phrase?

An expanded noun phrase gives much more detail than a simple noun phrase, such as an adjective to describe the noun:

the angry bear

and a prepositional phrase to give extra details:

the angry bear with a sore paw

Expanded noun phrases allow us to give precise information quickly and concisely:

Watch out for the angry bear with a sore paw.

Co-ordinating Conjunctions

What is a conjunction?

A conjunction links two or more words, phrases or clauses together.

What is a co-ordinating conjunction?

Co-ordinating conjunctions link two main clauses (or independent clauses) together as an equal pair to create a compound sentence. We usually remember these words using the acronym 'FANBOYS':

for and nor but or yet so

main clause + co-ordinating conjunction + main clause = compound sentence

Gita drank her water. She was thirsty.
Gita drank her water for she was thirsty.

- 1 Complete the sentence below by writing the conjunctions from the box in the correct places. Use each conjunction only once.

and so nor

Subordinating Conjunctions and Subordinate Clauses

What is a subordinating conjunction?

Subordinating conjunctions introduce a subordinate clause; you can remember some of the most useful ones with the acronym 'I SAW A WABUB':

if	since	as	when	although
while	after	before	until	because

The words when, after, until, before and since can be used as prepositions or as subordinating conjunctions in sentences.

If introducing a clause (a group of words including a verb), they are being used as a subordinating conjunction.

What is a subordinate clause?

A subordinate clause supports a main (independent) clause. The opening words of subordinate clauses show that they are dependent on the independent clause. For example:

The ferry left the port after the storm cleared.
After the storm cleared, the ferry left the port.

- 1 Rewrite the sentence below, adding a subordinate clause.

Remember to punctuate your answer correctly.
