

Fragments And Run-ons

Fragments and Run-ons: Below, you'll find tweets from a variety of celebrities including Taylor Swift, Stephen Colbert, Danny Pudi (Abed on Community), Jesse Tyler Ferguson, Ryan Lochte, Michael Phelps, Neil Patrick Harris, and Rob Lowe. Each tweet contains a fragment and/or run-on sentence. Use what you've learned to fix these tweets.

Lady Gaga: The Olympics is the best ever. but I went through a whole pack of tissues last night. Watching hard working athletes achieve their dreams.

Taylor Swift: The most magical night at Dianna Agron's circus themed birthday party!

Stephen Colbert: I love breakfast so much, I won't tell anyone the combination to my waffle safe. I have it hidden behind a painting of a pancake.

Stephen Colbert: We have so much free ice cream piling up in the studio these days, I've ordered my staff to seek out devastating heartbreaks.

Danny Pudi: Two kind strangers brought me rhubarb pie yesterday. It was dynamite. No longer prejudging the rhubarb plant.

Jesse Tyler Ferguson: In 24 hours I will have made my Hollywood Bowl debut and honestly, I could not be more excited.

Ryan Lochte: With the family today having a great day

Michael Phelps: Just got a pretty cool phone call on the way to the pool from Mr. President Barack Obama

Michael Phelps: Step one of the trip done. Wish the next plane was chartered too.

Neil Patrick Harris: Spending time with the Burtka family in Michigan. I love this part of the country. Great people, beautiful weather. Loving life.

Neil Patrick Harris: Looking forward to the new Big Brother tonight. But if there aren't any super hot people that are also cool, I'm out!

Neil Patrick Harris: Night. It's late in Paris and I must sleep now.

Rob Lowe: It's one hundred and ten on set and I am pocket tweeting. Apologies to all. #HeatStroke

Rob Lowe: Just landed. Ready to attack some Parisian cuisine. There will be NO austerity!

Rob Lowe: My family keeps telling me dinner is ready. I sit down and it's not. #HungerGames