Today, we are learning to write sentences that contain homophones and use commas in speech.

Kit and Sam were back safe and sound at Grandma and Grandad's house. They crept under the covers. "What an adventure that was! I can't believe we got to meet so many characters in the book," said Sam.

“I hope we haven’t made any noise,” whispered Kit.
“I don’t think Grandma and Grandad will have heard us from downstairs,” replied Sam.

We are going to write a sentence to explain what happened in the story.

Practise

How did the Cheshire Cat help Kit and Sam get to the tea party?
Work with a partner to write a sentence to answer the question.

He told them to use the potion they had found.

Show Suggestion

“I want to remember our adventures in Wonderland forever,” said Sam.

“Do you think we can stay awake long enough to write about the characters we met?” asked Kit, as Sam nodded.

Adventures in Wonderland

Sam and Kit are writing a book about their adventure in Wonderland.
Can you write sentences to match the pictures?

We followed the rabbit until he disappeared down a narrow hole. We had to take a potion to fit in and with one little sip, we shrunk down to a teeny size. "Here we go," said Kit, as we jumped in.

“You are too small,” said the Mad Hatter, as he gave us another potion that made us much bigger! He did not seem sure though.

We looked at the table and there was every treat you could imagine. "You must try the soup," said the March Hare. We took some stripy cakes and there were teacups full of pear soup.

“It has been great to meet you all,” we said, as we had to leave. We thanked the Mad Hatter and all of his friends and waved goodbye.

Kit and Sam were back safe and sound at Grandma and Grandad's house. "Shhh. Be quiet," whispered Sam, as they crept back into bed.

"I hope we fall asleep quickly," said Kit. "I need my forty winks after visiting Wonderland," he smiled softly.

Today, we have written sentences containing homophones / near homophones and used commas in speech.

Q3: What was inside the chest?

We followed the rabbit until he disappeared down a narrow hole. We had to take a potion to fit in and with one little sip, we shrunk down to a teeny size. "Here we go," said Kit, as we jumped in.

Q4: What do you predict will happen when they get to the bottom of the rabbit hole?

Q5: Why did they need the potion?
