Holly's mother had told her to clean her room before her birthday party. She needed to clear up space for more gifts before she could bring any into the house! She spent the whole day sorting out her toys so she had plenty of room. All of her dolls went into one bucket, all of her puzzles went into another. She put all of her stuffed animals on her bed, and lined up her toy cars and trains all around her room. By the time her party started, her room was spotless.

Evie pulled a face and looked down at her plate in disgust. She couldn't believe her mom had made a dinner with every single one of her least favorite ingredients. There was yucky cucumber and lettuce, covered in sticky mayonnaise. Mom had even put tomatoes on the chicken, and carrots on the side. To make matters worse, dessert was rice pudding, and Evie hated rice pudding! This was the worst meal ever.

As soon as Alfie drifted off to sleep, he was transported into a magical faraway land. He was surrounded by fairy tale characters and people from the movie that he had watched just before bed. The characters couldn't see him, but he could see them and hear everything they were saying. Just as he was beginning to have fun, a dragon came swooping down upon him, baring its teeth and breathing fire. He jumped and sat up, wide awake, his heart pounding.

Molly tapped on the window next to her front door. She cupped her hands around her eyes and peered inside, desperately trying to get someone's attention. Nobody came to the door, so she checked the back door. It was locked. Her fingers were getting cold and she was starting to shiver. She took her backpack off and tried climbing up to the lowest window, but she couldn't reach it. She was sure she would be stuck outside for hours. "That will teach me for leaving my keys at home," she thought.
