

Doylestown Borough Tax Collection Information.

Introduction

Pennsylvania's system of property tax collection utilizes elected Tax Collectors to act as the receiving agent for the various taxing entities. These entities include the Local Municipality (Doylestown Borough), the County Government (Bucks), and the School District (Central Bucks). Each entity has its own Property Tax rate, known as "Millage", that is set year to year. The Borough and the School District also equally share a 1% local earned income tax, which is collected by Keystone Collections Group, and not the local Tax Collector. Property assessments are set by the Bucks County Board of Assessment, and not by the Borough.
