EQUALITY AND DIVERSITY POLICY

1 Introduction
Edinburgh Women’s Aid is a women only feminist organisation which exists to provide services to women, children and young people experiencing or at risk of domestic abuse. The objective justification for the provision of a service provided by women for women is in recognition of the gendered nature of domestic abuse and the need for specialist services which provide safe spaces for women and children to recover from the trauma of abuse.

Edinburgh Women's Aid recognises that many individuals and communities experience unlawful and unfair discrimination and oppression. The Equality Act 2010 sets out the following “protected characteristics”:
- Age
- Disability
- Gender reassignment
- Marriage and civil partnership
- Pregnancy and maternity
- Race
- Religion and belief
- Sex
- Sexual orientation

Under the Act EWA is not allowed to discriminate, harass or victimise another person because they have any of the protected characteristics. There is also protection against discrimination where someone is perceived to have one of the protected characteristics or where they are associated with someone who has a protected characteristic.
- Discrimination means treating one person worse than another because of a protected characteristic (known as direct discrimination) or putting in place a rule or policy or way of doing things that has a worse impact on someone with a protected characteristic than someone without one, when this cannot be objectively justified (known as indirect discrimination).
- Harassment includes unwanted conduct related to a protected characteristic which has the purpose or effect or violating someone’s dignity or which creates a hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for someone with a protected characteristic.
- Victimisation is treating someone unfavourably because they have taken (or might be taking) action under the Equality Act or supporting somebody who is doing so.
