This table, like much of Caruso St John's work, refers to a familiar type. It looks like a table, it is rectilinear, it has a top, four legs, and it's made of wood. By making it out of lumber board, an engineered timber product used for construction site hoardings, the duo presents an everyday material resembling giant plywood that is strong, stable, referential yet unfamiliar within the context of furniture design. Table is available in white Corian and black linoleum table surface options.

Care & Maintenance

Corian®
Any marks or stains on the Corian® surface can easily be removed using the following processes:
For every day cleaning, use a damp cloth and a mild clean abrasive cleaner, or other common household degreaser, and clean in a circular motion.
For tougher stains or light scratches use a Scotch-Brite abrasive cleaning pad and detergent in a circular motion followed by the process above.

Linoleum
For every day cleaning, use a damp cloth and a mild household cleaner. Wipe the surface dry with a clean cloth.
For tougher stains such as ink, use white spirit or methylated spirits.
To prevent stubborn stains from forming it is recommended that coasters be placed under cups, glasses, flowerpots and vases.
