

Our House of Brands

Etsy, Inc. connects millions of passionate and creative buyers and sellers around the world. Each of our two-sided online marketplaces share a mission to keep commerce human, and we're committed to using the power of business to strengthen communities and empower people. Reverb became part of Etsy, Inc. in 2019, followed by Depop in 2021.

What encouraged Etsy to incorporate Reverb and Depop into our House of Brands? Each brand consists of vibrant, two-sided marketplaces with passionate communities and highly-differentiated offerings of unique items where the whole is greater than the sum of its parts. While our marketplaces operate independently, they all benefit from shared expertise in areas such as product, marketing, technology, and customer support. By adding subsidiaries with their own buyer and seller communities, we have expanded Etsy's community in key geographies and generational cohorts where we'll now be able to keep more commerce, more human.

Etsy, Inc. employees – whether a team member of Etsy, Reverb, or Depop – tackle unique, meaningful, and large-scale problems alongside passionate coworkers, all the while making a rewarding impact.
