FENS, Federation of European Neuroscience Societies

FENS is the voice of European neuroscience

FENS – Federation of European Neuroscience Societies is the main organisation for neuroscience in Europe established in 1998 and based in Brussels, Belgium. It currently represents and serves 43 national and single-discipline neuroscience societies across 33 European countries and a community of 20,000 member scientists.

FENS supports and promotes neuroscience research in Europe and beyond through its global partnerships. Its activities operate across four main impact areas: advancing neuroscience research; facilitating knowledge exchange; empowering community; and investing in the future. In addition, FENS emphasises the importance of its core values – credibility, inclusivity, and sustainability – in all its activities, helping to ensure they are representative of the diverse neuroscience community and reinforcing responsible research practices

FENS REGIONAL MEETING

Taking place in odd years, the FENS Regional Meetings (FRM) are organised by FENS member societies with the support of FENS.

The FENS Regional Meeting (FRM) is dedicated to supporting member societies in promoting excellence in research, with a European regional focus. FRMs aim to strengthen neuroscience in all European countries, promote scientific exchange within and across European regions and secure representation and access to the FRM programme for underrepresented scientists and topics.

FENS Regional Meetings feature inspiring plenary lectures from distinguished researchers, a range of themed symposia providing updates from leading experts in different research areas, special sessions to engage participants on wider issues beyond research, and the contributions of participants towards the scientific discussion at the event through posters and brief oral presentations.

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAMME INTRODUCTION

Programme Introduction

We are excited to present the scientific programme plans for the FENS Regional Meeting, set against the vibrant and historic backdrop of Istanbul in 2027.

The event promises to be an exceptional gathering, showcasing groundbreaking research and fostering collaborative dialogue between basic and applied molecular and cellular life sciences, including clinical biochemistry. The speaker list and programme schedule will be presented on the website in the autumn.

Plenary Lectures

The Meeting will host several plenary lectures delivered by distinguished research leaders from around the globe. These sessions will provide a platform for sharing seminal discoveries and insights across diverse scientific disciplines.

Special Sessions

The programme will also feature special sessions on topics such as education and training, research infrastructures and clinical translation.

Poster Sessions and Networking

Posters will play a crucial role in facilitating knowledge exchange and networking. Poster presentation sessions, categorized by topic, will provide attendees with opportunities to engage with the latest research and foster collaborative discussions.

We are enthusiastic about the diverse and dynamic programme of the FENS Regional Meeting and look forward to welcoming you to Istanbul for an inspiring and impactful scientific experience.
