HEAD COACH KENNETH BLAKENEY

On May 6, 2019, Howard University Director of Athletics Kery Davis announced the hiring of Kenneth Blakeney as its men's basketball head coach.

Entering his second season, Blakeney signed highly talented Makur Maker, who became the first 5-star recruit to commit to an Historically Black College or University (HBCU) since ESPN started ranking prospects in 2007.

In his first season at the helm, Blakeney coached Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (MEAC) All-Time Leading Scorer Charles Williams where he earned All-MEAC honors. He also witnessed Wayne Bristol, Jr. winning 2019-20 MEAC Rookie of the Year.

Blakeney brings a wealth of experience and a winning pedigree to the program. He has coached at seven Division I universities over a 12-year span. He has been associated with winning as a player, coach and business entrepreneur.

Raised in Washington, D.C., Blakeney played for Hall of Fame Coach Morgan Wooten, the winningest high school coach in history. Following his stellar scholastic career, Blakeney headed to Durham, N.C., to play for the Duke Blue Devils under the direction of Head Coach Mike Krzyzewski. During his Duke career, the Blue Devils compiled a record of 99-34 which included winning two national championships.

After receiving his bachelor's degree in history from Duke, Blakeney secured his first coaching position as the assistant men's basketball coach at James Madison under Hall of Fame Coach Lefty Driesell.

Blakeney later moved on to the men's basketball staff at LaSalle University where he recruited and developed Rasual Butler, a 2002 NBA draft pick for the Miami Heat.

Blakeney then moved on to the University of Delaware where he served as the Head Assistant under now current Notre Dame coach Mike Brey. During his time in Delaware, Blakeney conducted coaching clinics and lectured in Senegal and Turkey as part of NBA educational efforts.

He also assisted in the recruitment of three nationally ranked recruiting classes from 2003-06 at Delaware. Blakeney lectured in the physical education department, coordinated community relations events and initiated a marketing campaign called the "6MAN".

After one-year stints at St. Bonaventure and Marshall, Blakeney went on to have a successful career at Harvard University. Working under Head Coach and former Duke standout Tommy Amaker, he assisted in capturing the program's first Ivy League Title and NCAA Tournament berth since 1946. Blakeney also helped recruit two back to back Top 50 recruiting classes in 2008 and 2009, with the 2008 class being named to the ESPN Top 25. He also discovered and developed 10-year NBA veteran Jeremy Lin.

After his four years at Harvard, Blakeney co-founded a fashion accessory company named Sportin' Styles. Additionally, he joined apparel giant Under Armour where he worked with NBA, College and Grass Roots division. In 2018, he returned to the sidelines and the Ivy League at Columbia University.

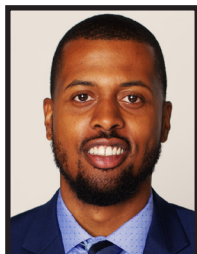

2021-22 Howard Men's Basketball Staff

ROD BALANIS

Associate Head Coach

In 2021, Rod Balanis joined the Howard University men's basketball program as the associate head coach. Before joining the Bison, Balanis spent 21 seasons with the Notre Dame Fighting Irish. Balanis' original role at Notre Dame was coordinator of basketball operations. He was elevated to assistant coach (2003) and associate head coach (2016). Balanis reunites with former high school teammate and Bison head coach Kenneth Blakeney. The two played together at DeMatha Catholic.

TYLER THORNTON

Assistant Coach | Director of Player Development

In 2019, Tyler Thornton joined the Howard University men's basketball program as an assistant coach under Kenneth Blakeney. Before his arrival at Howard, Thornton served as a graduate manager for the Marquette University men's basketball team for two seasons (2014-16). In high school, Thornton became Gonzaga College High School's all-time career wins leader by leading them to four-straight seasons of at least 20 wins.

STEVE ONGLEY

Assistant Coach

On June 9, 2021, Howard University men's basketball program welcomed Steve Ongley to the Bison Family. Ongley came to HU after serving the past two seasons at Dartmouth. At Dartmouth, Ongley was instrumental in the development of forward Chris Knight, who earned All-Ivy Second Team after averaging 14.8 points and 6.4 rebounds during his junior campaign. Ongley graduated from Southern Connecticut State with a history degree.

YAHYA THABIT

Director of Basketball Operations

In 2021, Yahya Thabit joined the Howard University men's basketball program as the Director of Basketball Operations. Mr. Thabit received his Bachelor's Degree with Honors from York University in Toronto, Canada.
