

Phase out of live sheep exports by sea submission.

I believe it is about time Australia moves up the value adding chain by developing high technology abattoirs here in Australia, employing Australians and maintaining complete control throughout the supply chain. This would also increase the difficulty for overseas abattoirs supplementing or replacing our quality lamb with non-Australian lamb or even other non-lamb fillings, while advertising the product as 100% Australian.

Thank you for your time, [REDACTED].