

Re banning live sheep exports

I grew up on a sheep farm in Tasmania. My younger brother still runs it. I understand sheep, and their suffering during transport.

Live sheep export by sea is very cruel and unnecessary. It should end as soon as possible.

After the meeting in September a firm timetable should be set up, so that it is not a "can to be kicked down the road" in the next government term.

Farmers should be told as soon a decision is made. Sufficient abattoirs should be built to produce export boxed meat.

Farmers on dry, less fertile land should be compensated where necessary.

Yours sincerely

A black rectangular redaction box covering the signature of the sender.

PS. I am a vegetarian, not a vegan