

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to you today to share my views on ending live sheep exports. Tens of thousands of sheep have died and been subjected to horrors no living being should have to endure.

So little regard has been shown towards these animals; not just being shipped across the oceans but when they make port and are consequently slaughtered (so often un-stunned)

I completely support the phase out of live sheep exports. New Zealand has made huge advancements in this space and shows that it can be done whilst still looking after the farmers.

The opaque nature of this industry leaves so many questions and little to no answers, I think they have lost more than just their social license.

Thank you for taking the time to read my submission.

Regards

A solid black rectangular box used to redact the signature of the sender.