

Good afternoon,

[REDACTED]. I am writing regarding the phase out of the live export of sheep.

The conditions suffered by the sheep, and of which will to continue to suffer should live export persist, is cruel and archaic. It is a nightmare. I support a phase out. I also support farmers and their families receiving government support through this phase out transition.

I am unable to imagine the level of fear, confusion and pain that those sentient beings feel when cramped on board those ships. Further animal cruelty awaits them where they land, which Australians may have no knowledge of what happens to them. I believe it is just unnecessary and cruel.

I can kindly urge for your support to protect these sentient living beings and put an end to this trade.
