

Dear Live Sheep Export Panel Members,

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to have my say regarding Live Sheep Export.

[REDACTED] I am very concerned about the Australian sheep being sent overseas.

To me, live sheep export is one of the worst animal cruelty industries that ever existed. I have seen footage and reports of sheep suffering during their long journeys, then once they arrive at their destination, they continue to endure cruel treatment until their eventual deaths.

So, please stop all live sheep export as soon as possible and transition to chilled or frozen meat trade instead. This is a win-win for all because it will create jobs for Australians and we will stop the cruelty that is currently inflicted on hundreds of thousands of sheep.

Australians do not want live sheep exported. It is well overdue to end this cruel trade. Thank you.

Yours sincerely,
