

To Whom it may concern,

I grew up in Apsley, Victoria and we had a big farm of 500 acres, carrying many sheep. As a farmer, it is my view that the sufferieng of sheep at sea and our part in this must come to a close. Tens of thousands of sheep have already died on live export ships due to substandard conditions and many will be subjected to suffering, abuse, pain and potentially horndous deaths.

Judith McNamara

Kyneton, Victoria