

The Albanese Government re Live Animal Export.

May 2023.

Dear decision makers,

Please accept my submission against live sheep export. I am aghast that this decision even requires debate. This practice is morally repugnant and indefensibly cruel.

Forget a phase-out, why not stop this unconscionable conduct now? Every delay costs lives.

My fellow Australian expect a decision on cessation as soon as possible as this trade undermines public trust in Australia's agricultural sector.

I share concern for farmers and believe they need support and re-education about transitioning to options for future use of their property without animal agriculture.

This is better for the environment also which should be a concern for you.

Other countries have followed their values of fairness and a fair go, why not Australia.

Worse, this practice is inherently cruel, and even when all the insufficient regulations are followed, sheep still suffer heat stress at sea, crushing and painful un-stunned slaughter overseas.

Sincerely,

Katie Flannigan
