

I ask the Prime Minister Anthony Albanese and the Labor government to fulfil the commitment supported by the majority of Australians to end the live export of sheep during this elected term.

I hope the Labor government will do its best to work towards a FUTURE WITHOUT ANY LIVE-ANIMAL EXPORT, including cattle and any other live-animal which do not deserve the mistreatment and tortures tens of thousands of them have gone through so far. It is possible to set Australia down a kinder path and this will bring humanity as a whole towards the same direction.

I hope you will take into consideration that the change is possible.

Thank you,

Patrizia Marino
