Prosecco

Q8. Grounds of objection
A submission against one or more of the wine GIs must be based on at least one of the four grounds of objection.

The EU GI name is used in Australia as the common name for the relevant good, including as a type or style of wine.

The EU GI name is used in Australia as the name of a grape variety, plant variety, or an animal breed.

Q9. Please provide further details, based on the grounds of objection for each GI. (If submission based on existing trade mark please provide trade mark number. If submission based on unregistered trade mark please provide evidence of use on Australia).

[REDACTED] planted its first Prosecco vineyard in 2012 and its second in 2017. Both are in the Adelaide Hills GI of Australia. In both instances, the vines were purchased from the highly accredited Yalumba Nursery and were named Prosecco as that is the Grape Variety. We note that firstly Yalumba Nursery still lists on its website the variety Prosecco. In that regard, since we first planted the variety, the Yalumba Nursery has on a number of occasions, taken cuttings from our vines for propagation. In addition to the above, subsequent to ordering the variety but prior to planting it, we travelled to Italy. At that stage, all bars and restaurants which we visited were selling glasses or bottles of Prosecco. It was not referred to as Glera!!!! As an Australian Wine Business which has focused on planting and then making wine from the Mediterranean varieties which are relatively new to Australia, we are also of course concerned that if the EU is successful in this application, there is the possibility that the same approach will be taken to many of the other varieties we have planted, namely: Italian: Arneis Pinot Grigio Fiano Falanghina Sangiovese Montepulciano Spanish: Albarino Graciano Tempranillo French: Viognier Grenache Gris Gamay Of course, other growers and winemakers would have many more grape varieties and other food products which this Free Trade Agreement is likely to impact should the EU get its way.
