Q8. Grounds of objectionA submission against one or more of the wine GIs must be based on at least one of the four grounds of objection.	The EU GI name is used in Australia as the name of a grape variety, plant variety, or an animal breed.
Q9. Please provide further details, based on the grounds of objection for each GI. (If submission based on existing trade mark please provide trade mark number. If submission based on unregistered trade mark please provide evidence of use on Australia).	Australian Prosecco has grown to be a popular style and showcases what great Australian wines can be. From my own research, it appears to be the name of a grape variety, and not truly a region in Italy. This process also appears to coincide with Prosecco's recent success in the Australian market, rather than coming from any genuine interest in protecting Italian regionality. We should not flippantly trade away names, and it is a slippery slope when Prosecco is not so clearly a region like Champagne for example, as this could create precedence future regionality claims against other common name resources (plant, animal or otherwise).
