Q7. Please select which EU wine geographical indication (GI) your submission is against	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Prosecco
Q8. Grounds of objectionA submission against one or more of the wine GIs must be based on at least one of the four grounds of objection.	The EU GI name is used in Australia as the name of a grape variety, plant variety, or an animal breed.
Q9. Please provide further details, based on the grounds of objection for each GI. (If submission based on existing trade mark please provide trade mark number. If submission based on unregistered trade mark please provide evidence of use on Australia).	Prosecco is an internationally recognised grape variety and protection as a GI would restrict legitimate rights of Australian wine businesses to grow, produce, label the term as a grape variety. As a grape grower, we would be deterred from investing in establishing vineyards and associated infrastructure, equipment and people relating to Prosecco. This would impact our future forecasts as both a grape grower and wine producer as we would not see the same appetite for South Australian Prosecco domestically and abroad. Australia's Prosecco crush has increased 603% since 2015 (15,397 tonnes in 2022) and as a grape grower and wine producer, we have been tentative to invest in Prosecco considering an unfavourable ruling might not be a worthy investment in the future. As a marketer, we would be deterred from investing in marketing and promotion of future Prosecco products and flow on investment in tourism, restaurants and catering. Protection of a grape variety as a GI would establish a precedent which creates risk and uncertainty for those investing in other grape varieties, leaving the Australian grape and wine sector vulnerable to future attempts to ban the use of common grape variety names.
