Q8. Grounds of objectionA submission against one or more of the wine GIs must be based on at least one of the four grounds of objection.

The EU GI name is used in Australia as the common name for the relevant good, including as a type or style of wine.

The EU GI name is used in Australia as the name of a grape variety, plant variety, or an animal breed.

Q9. Please provide further details, based on the grounds of objection for each GI. (If submission based on existing trade mark please provide trade mark number. If submission based on unregistered trade mark please provide evidence of use on Australia).

The grape variety Prosecco has been planted in Australia for more than 35 years and, over time, has become a popular sparkling wine varietal style in Australia and many counties around the world. Many Australian grape growers and winemakers have planted the variety in good faith, made the grapes into wine and sold the wine using the varietal name Prosecco. It's unacceptable for the Italian government to recently decide that a GI will be created called Prosecco, given the long history of sales as a varietal wine, and another name should be created for the new Italian GI.
