Q7. Please select which EU wine geographical indication (GI) your submission is against

León

Q8. Grounds of objectionA submission against one or more of the wine GIs must be based on at least one of the four grounds of objection.

The EU GI name is used in Australia as the common name for the relevant good, including as a type or style of wine.

The EU GI name is used in Australia as the name of a grape variety, plant variety, or an animal breed.

Q9. Please provide further details, based on the grounds of objection for each GI. (If submission based on existing trade mark please provide trade mark number. If submission based on unregistered trade mark please provide evidence of use on Australia).

The term "prosecco" refers to a particular grape variety. It is not in any way a geographical area. Prosecco is a word used in Australia to denote a variety of wine, viz one that is made from prosecco grapes. These grapes can be sourced anywhere without reference to a particular geographic area.

Q10. Would you like to make a second selection of EU wine geographical indications (GI)?

Q28. OtherAny other information on the impacts EU GIs may have on Australian businesses or industry.

If the term "prosecco" is to be treated as "champagne" currently is, then it makes a mockery of the system. Words have meanings, and they must be respected. If the name of a variety of grape can suddenly become the name for a geographic area, then we are on a slippery slope to absurdity.
