We need renewables.

We need the government to help shift the focus from a dying world (fossil fuels) to a healthy world (renewables).

We need investment in clean energy, not ridiculous strategies from fossil fuel investors like "clean coal" ... I mean, who the hell came up with that joke?

We need clean air, clean water and a clean earth.

- Solar panels on all new buildings
- Government assistance in solar battery uptake
- Wind power and investment in research to reduce interference with other species
- Desalination plants (not bores n dams)
- Waste to energy plants (no more toxic landfill)
- Australia based recycling (no more overseas waste)
- Investment and prioritise use of recycled materials (no more virgin resources for useless things like toys n junk)
- No more native deforestation (renewable plantations only)
- No more new petrol vehicle sales and buy back schemes to use parts n recycle
- Invest in such business to achieve circular economy
- One or two child policy (housing crisis among others can be fixed)
- National environmental and animal welfare laws not just by state or territory
- Government assistance to remove asbestos in old housing and upgrade homes to the new standards
- Enact all delivery and government vehicles (not emergency vehicles) be electric and assist in transition
- Amend laws so companies can not freely intrude on premises to search for resources (formal requests and compensation 'must' be adhered to)
- Laws must be strengthened to prevent environmental destruction and sabotage to such a degree that it may be $10000 per tree or animal plus imprisonment 1 year per tree or animal as current laws are highly inadequate
- Upgrade health facilities across the country with solar, water tanks, batteries and charging stations

All these things can actually help toward a cleaner and healthier Australia.

This isn't just about renewables, it is about reinventing our country and making us healthy again.

Yours sincerely,
