Submission to the Community Engagement Review

To Review Team,

Please ensure your review encompasses the following key principles, otherwise we will not be doing all we feasibly can to combat and limit devastating impact of global warming.

- 1) Communities need to be fully involved as stakeholders in Australia's energy transition so that we see fairer outcomes and huge benefits. Our government should plan for long-term investment in communities, sustainable jobs, well designed, consultative transition for those losing jobs in oil & gas and related industries, lower power prices, co-benefits for farmers, and cleaner air for all.
- 2) Investing heavily in renewable energy infrastructure, speeding up transition from existing oil & gas, and not permitting any new oil & gas projects, otherwise there will be more coal and gas power and more emissions. Scientists are telling us the the risk of increased emissions and we must be doing everything possible to reduce them now.
- 3) Ensure First Nations communities always have free and informed prior consent for projects on their Country, and can participate in and share the benefits of the energy transition.
- 4) Education for Australians so they can take personally empower them to reduce their carbon footprint.
- 5) Objective, scientific analysis and a comprehensive and fair consultation process for all proposed clean energy projects, to ensure adverse environmental and community impacts are reduced. Also a well designed monitoring mechanisms throughout the life of these projects to ensure we continuously improve.

Yours sincerely,
