

Submitted by: Anonymous

Comment

HRW Crane Licensing is too fast and very lightly approached. I believe , like the older years , you become a dogman or rigger prior to crane licensing. The fundamentals go hand in hand and makes for a better operator with rigging based knowledge. A logbook style system like that of 1980s and enrolment with an employer and be employed.

Being High risk , these licences are handed out like lollies for whoever can afford them , which in most cases are C0 tickets able to operate the largest of mobile plant with no SWL restriction.

Go back to basics , employ , learn and deliver tickets in upgrade formats from class to class over several years.