

Submitted by: Anonymous (Submission 1240468)

Duties of care

As a duty of care to all employees and visitors to a work place, AEDs should be mandatory within the workplace. With the expectation that staff be first aid trained, it seems logic that they have the tools required to carry out complete first aid if required. Thus an AED and suitable first aid kit should be easily accessible within the workplace.