

Submitted by: Pumps United

Legislative framework

I find it amazing that you have Australian Standards, which are the go too documents to ensure we comply with legislation. Then you charge people to view and access them. This is a dangerous policy as some small firms will not be able to purchase all the standards they require, so they may be putting people at risk for the pure fact that they cannot afford the expense. Legislation should be free, and not the preserve of those that can afford it. Kind regards Jess James