

Submitted by: Tom Bourne

Prosecutions and legal proceedings

I feel that the penalties / fines / jail time does not actually reflect community concerns at this time, and have not adequately been updated to act as an effective deterrent. Adoption of penalties and offences similar to what the Queensland Government has introduced recently would address this. In fact, the offence of industrial manslaughter would be a welcome addition to the range of options on offer for regulators.