

emphasized that the united front against Communism was the real solution, not pacific co-operation. The tug-of-war between the two sides was evident from the start. Right-wingers insisted upon the slogan "United States against Communist China," while left-wingers insisted upon the slogan "United States and China against the United States." The rightists insisted upon the slogan "United States against Communism," while the leftists insisted upon the slogan "United States and China against the United States."
