

Frontend Developer (m/w)

About wohnungshelden wohnungshelden is a Munich-based real estate startup which delivers a SaaS solution for the digital change of tenants. Our goal is to streamline the entire letting process while mining and analyzing process data to deliver insights in the workflows and the market. Our main target audience are large real estate companies with many lettings, e.g. new constructions, large agencies or asset investors. Within the last year, we already acquired multiple customers with approx. 250.000 apartments in total and now want to accelerate our traction.

Our company took part at the only European PropTech accelerator – the Blackprint PropTech Booster. Now we received our growth funding with well-known PropTech Business angels and are searching for frontend developers to extend and improve the existing solution.

Your profile

- Study related to web-technologies, interface- or communication design
- Experience in web-development with JavaScript, Typescript, HTML and CSS preprocessors (SCSS / SASS)
- Preferably experience with Angular (5) and Bootstrap 3 and Design Tools like Sketch or InVision
- Sense of aesthetics, design and user behavior

Responsibilities

- Development of new features with Angular und Bootstrap
- Implementation of End-to-End Tests
- Wireframing and design of prototypes
- Visualization of UX-Flows and design of detailed Mockups as a basis for development
- Close collaboration with the product development team

Why joining wohnungshelden

If you've already gained frontend programming experience with JavaScript and especially with Angular, e.g. in previous student jobs or in your free time, and you now want to get a deep dive into building highly scalable architectures with state of the art technologies, then you should definitely join us. We do not only provide the real startup flair with flat hierarchies, flexible working times and an open culture, we are also seeking people who are passionate about taking responsibilities and want to grow within the company.

Please get in touch with us at team@wohnungshelden.de - and btw. a resume is enough!

We are looking forward to hearing from you!