
INTRODUCING KEECKER FIRST LIMITED EDITION

Keecker releases its first limited edition with a very elegant black edition and partners exclusively with Harrods to sell it in the United Kingdom.

Paris, France – November 23rd 2018

After pleasing hundreds of customers in the UK and releasing 4 major updates featuring new functionalities, for the first time in its history Keecker will release a limited edition. Keecker chose Harrods to release it in very limited quantities in pre-order from November 23rd in Harrods Store at a retail price of £2.299.

The Black Limited Edition will feature a full black cover and a stylish shiny rose gold mention on the back featuring the Keecker brand logo and a “Limited Edition” mention. It will also feature 288GB letting customers store hours of video content and music.

“Today we are pleased to offer this new premium limited black edition of Keecker and confirm our great partnership with Harrods” said Pierre Lebeau, CEO of Keecker. “We’ve been thinking of creating a new colour variant as many customers demanded it. We chose a beautiful black and gold design, remaining discreet and premium, very much defining matching Keecker values, our customers and the experience our robot provides.” Thanks to this limited edition, Keecker offers a second option to make sure Keecker fits everyone’s home.

Keecker lets you stream movies, videos and music anywhere at home as it moves with you. Through its cameras and embedded sensors, Keecker lets you communicate with your family and keep an eye on your home remotely.

Just ask and Keecker comes over to play your favorite video application in a room through its 90° adjustable HD LED short throw videoprojector which projects from wall to ceiling. Your music also moves through a loud and crisp immersive 4.1 audio system embedded that can reach 117dB. With two cameras and microphones for security and videoconferencing, Keecker is an elegantly designed all-in-one system that fits everyone’s home without cables or complexity.

Keecker is built with an Android TV operating system and all the thousands of apps it offers. Gain access to content with Google Play, Chromecast, Google Assistant and pair your Keecker with Amazon Echo, Google Home and HomePod to benefit from more capacities.

ABOUT KEECKER

Created in 2012 by former Google product manager Pierre Lebeau, Keecker is a French company creating innovative technologies that enhance people's everyday lives. After a successful crowdfunding campaign and a $5.2 million funding round with Hardware Club, along with SEB alliance and Aplus finance, Keecker has developed an eponymous product – a connected robot dedicated to the sharing of the multimedia experience at home for the whole family, with ease.
