2005 SEASON IN REVIEW

A new era in South Carolina volleyball began with the 2005 season, as head coach Nancy Somera embarked on her first year with the Gamecocks. Formerly the skipper for Oregon State from 1999 to 2004, Somera replaced 12-year South Carolina coach Kim Hudson, who departed after compiling a 226-133 (.630) overall record and a 104-70 (.598) slate in the Southeastern Conference.

Somera was hired by USC in February 2005, giving she and the staff little time to prepare the Garnet and Black for spring training. With her top assistant and husband, Ben Somera, and fellow assistant Jason Hou completing his third year with South Carolina, Somera hit the ground running and began instilling her philosophy into the program.

The Gamecocks opened the season Sept. 2 in Tallahassee, Fla., at a tournament hosted by Florida State. USC was pitted against Pittsburgh in its first match of the day, and after winning the first two games by scores of 30-26 and 30-17, South Carolina dropped the third 33-31 before coming back to win 30-25 to give Somera her first win as a Gamecock. Later in the evening, USC dropped the host Seminoles by a 3-1 score.

South Carolina played Mercer the next day for a chance to take home the tournament title. The Gamecocks cruised in the match, hitting .308 (47-17-104) in the three-game sweep. Junior Shonda Cole led the way with 16 kills and just three errors on 27 kills for a stellar .481 hitting percentage. Freshman Marija Milosevic posted 13 kills for the second 10-kill outing of her short career.

Three days after winning the FSU tourney, South Carolina faced the Charlotte 49ers in its home opener at the Volleyball Competition Facility. The Gamecocks won the first game 30-25 and claimed the next two in decisive fashion with scores of 30-20 and 30-21. Cole blasted 17 kills for her fourth consecutive match with 10 or more.

Riding the high of a 4-0 start to the season, South Carolina headed north for its next tournament in Chapel Hill, N.C.

The GlaxoSmithKline Volleyball Classic featured, in addition to the Gamecocks, Coastal Carolina, Purdue and the host Tar Heels of North Carolina. USC faced Coastal Carolina first Sept. 9 and took on the Boilermakers and UNC the following day.

CCU gave the Gamecocks little trouble, falling in three games by scores of 30-25, 30-20, 30-21. The Boilermakers proved to be a little too tall of an order for South Carolina, and they dealt Somera and her troops a 3-0 defeat in the first contest the following afternoon. USC did, however, bounce back in its final match of the tournament against North Carolina.

After losing the first game 30-24, South Carolina responded with a 30-27 victory in the second to head to the 10-minute intermission tied at 1-1. A heated third game saw the Gamecocks come away with a 33-31 decision in their favor, and the fourth game ended in a 30-27 triumph to move South Carolina's record on the year to 6-1.

Cole extended her streak of double-digit kill matches to seven with 20 on the day.

While Cole had yet another outstanding tournament, classmate Lynae Vanden Hull put together a solid effort for the weekend as well. She had 11 kills and six block assists in the win over North Carolina, and along with Cole was named to the GlaxoSmithKline Volleyball Classic All-Tournament Team. Not to be outdone was a third member of the junior class, Iris Santos, who tallied a triple-double versus the Tar Heels on 14 kills, 40 assists and 13 digs.

Next up on the docket was a Sept. 13 match-up with the school's biggest rival, Clemson. The Gamecocks squared off with the Tigers on Clemson's home turf, but before the match even began, South Carolina was dealt a major blow. Vanden Hull went down with a knee injury while the teams were warming up, and it was later determined her misfortune would force her to miss the remainder of the season. Losing one of their best outside hitters, the Gamecocks suffered a 3-0 setback to Clemson.

Two non-conference matches awaited South Carolina in Charleston, S.C., before SEC play began with the Gamecocks traveling to LSU on Sept. 23. The College of Charleston Invitational offered USC matches with the host Cougars, as well as another group of Cougars in Houston.

CofC handed South Carolina its second consecutive loss with a 30-27, 31-29, 30-23 victory, but the Gamecocks rebounded against Houston. USC held a 2-0 advantage heading into game three, which turned out to be one of the most entertaining of the year. Houston won the stanza by a 40-38 count in the highest scoring game in Gamecock history since rally scoring was instituted in 2001. Despite UH's determination, South Carolina was able to snatch a 30-28 win in the fourth game and move its record in 2005 to 7-3.

Four Gamecocks reached double figures in the kill category in the Houston tilt, led by Cole's career-high 25 on 53 attempts. Senior Nicole Miller was next with 16, followed by 13 from fellow senior Lauren Ford, 12 from Santos and 10 by senior Sarah Morgan. Santos also posted 57 assists and 13 digs for her second triple-double performance in less than a week.

With several successes through the first 10 matches of the season, South Carolina brought a great amount of confidence with it to Fayetteville, Ark. That feeling was quickly being erased by the Tigers after LSU went to the break up 2-0 by dominating games one and two with margins of 10 and 13. Somera's Gamecocks, however, refused to leave Barnhill Arena so easily, and came back with 30-26 and 30-28 victories in the ensuing two games. Their rally ended up on the short end, as LSU claimed the deciding game 15-11 in South Carolina's first five-game match of the season.

USC would next face the Arkansas Lady Razorbacks and have the advantage of doing so without having to travel. The LSU match was played in Fayetteville due to damage sustained in Baton Rouge,

Iris Santos contributed in virtually every statistical category in 2005, becoming the first player in South Carolina history to record 200 kills, 200 digs and 500 assists in the same season.

2005 SEASON IN REVIEW

La., from Hurricane Katrina.

South Carolina took the first game from the Lady'Backs 30-25, but fell by a three-point disparity in the second game. After winning the third frame 30-22, USC narrowly missed out on putting Arkansas away when it fell 31-29 in game No. 4. Arkansas had a 14-11 advantage in the fifth game, but South Carolina stormed back to win the next three points and deadlock the match. The Lady'Backs, though, were able to preserve the victory by a 20-18 score.

Needing to put two heart-wrenching losses behind them, the Gamecocks returned to the Palmetto State awaiting a pair of clashes with two more SEC Western Division foes, Mississippi State and Mississippi. The first contest saw South Carolina return to a form more reminiscent of early September, as it registered a 3-1 victory over Mississippi State. Two days later, USC made short work of the Rebels in a 3-0 victory to even up its league record at 2-2. Between the two matches, the Gamecocks hit at a .288 clip, which was nearly 100 points higher than in the LSU and Arkansas tilts combined.

Sitting at 9-5 overall, South Carolina and coach Somera had to endure nine defeats in the next 10 matches. The Gamecocks' one victory came at Auburn on Oct. 16 to snap a streak of three losses. During USC's tough one-month period, South Carolina lost two matches in five games and three in four games.

Despite losing 9-of-10, the Gamecocks did recover in their final three contests of the year. First, South Carolina snagged a second triumph over Auburn on Nov. 11 by a 3-1 score in Columbia and two days later, the Garnet and Black got its first five-game victory of the year on senior day. The Gamecocks actually trailed Alabama 2-0 before coming back to win the final three games and finish with a 5-11 record in the SEC. South Carolina capped off the 2005 season with a sweep against Winthrop to put its final record at 13-14.

A pair of Gamecocks earned recognition from the Southeastern Conference. Cole was honored as a second-team All-SEC member for the second year in a row, while Milosevic made the SEC All-Freshman Team. In addition, Cole picked up honorable mention status on the AVCA All-South Region Team and was later named South Carolina's Most Valuable Player.

Cole ended the year leading USC in kills and kills per game with 414 and 4.18. It marked just the eighth time in school history that a Gamecock recorded 400 or more kills in a single season. Milosevic was second on the team with 266 kills. Morgan was South Carolina's top performer in the dig category with 261, followed closely by rookie Dinelia Concepcion's 238 and Santos' 231. Santos saw the majority of work as the Gamecocks' setter with 747 assists, however, freshman Petra Lorenzi played a significant role as well with 387 helpers.

With only three seniors departing the squad and five of the team's primary starters returning, Somera's Gamecocks are positioned to bring South Carolina back to prominence in the SEC.
