Did You Know...

Steve Spurrier is one of only four coaches to record 100 or more wins as an SEC coach against SEC competition (he also has three wins against SEC teams while coaching at Duke). Only Bear Bryant (159) has won more SEC conference games than Coach Spurrier's 110. Spurrier passed John Vaught (106) and Vince Dooley (105) during the 2010 campaign.

Steve Spurrier, who has coached a national championship team, won seven Southeastern Conference titles, garnered nine conference Coach of the Year awards, and won over 70 percent of the college games in which he has coached, begins his seventh season as head coach at the University of South Carolina, Spurrier was introduced as Carolina's 32nd head coach on Nov. 23, 2004.

Coach Spurrier has compiled a 186-73-2 (.716) won-loss record in 21 seasons as a major college head coach, including a 44-33 mark (.571) at Carolina. He led the Duke Blue Devils to the 1989 Atlantic Coast Conference championship before returning to his alma mater, the University of Florida, as head coach in 1990. During his 12 seasons with the Gators, Spurrier's teams won seven Southeastern Conference championships, one national title and finished ranked in the nation's top 10 nine times. His record at Florida was an amazing 122-27-1 (.817). Spurrier, who won the 1966 Heisman Trophy as a quarterback for the Gators, was also head coach of the NFL's Washington Redskins (2002-03). He returned to the college ranks in 2005 after a one-year absence from

In his first season at South Carolina, Coach Spurrier led the Gamecocks to a 7-5 record and a second-place finish in the SEC Eastern Division. In doing so, he posted a five-game winning streak, the 15th-consecutive year in which he has had a five-game winning streak, something no other coach in college history has accomplished. He was honored as the SEC Coach of the Year by the Associated Press after leading the Gamecocks to a school-record five straight SEC wins, their first win ever at Tennessee and their first win over Florida since the 1930s. It was the eighth time he has been honored as his league's Coach of the Year.

He came back with an 8-5 record in 2006, just the ninth time in school history that the Gamecocks posted eight or more wins in a season. The season was capped with a victory in the Liberty Bowl over Conference USA champion Houston. With that win, Spurrier matched Joe Morrison for the most wins by a Carolina head coach in his first two seasons in Columbia.

In his third season with the Garnet & Black. Spurrier's squad raced out to a 6-1 record and moved as high as No. 6 in the BCS rankings, before finishing the campaign with a 6-6 record. With 21 wins, he set the Carolina record for coaching victories after three seasons at the helm.

With a 7-6 record in 2008, Carolina returned to a New Year's Day bowl game for the first time since the 2001 season. The Gamecocks followed that up with another 7-6 record in 2009, their sixth consecutive non-losing season, the longest stretch in school history since 1928-34. The 2009 season included a win over No. 4 Ole Miss, only the second time in school history that Carolina has defeated a top-five team.

His 2010 Gamecock squad posted several milestones en route to a 9-5 season, the biggest of which was the school's first SEC Eastern Division title and first appearance in the SEC Championship. The Gamecocks also defeated the nation's No. 1 team, Alabama, for the first time in school history, and finished the season ranked 22nd in both major national polls. He was named SEC Coach of the Year for the seventh time, his ninth overall Coach of the Year honor.

The newest addition to the Carolina coaching staff, John Butler was named special teams coordinator on February 23, 2011. He will also help Ellis Johnson by assisting with the linebackers.

Butler, who had been hired two weeks prior by the Houston Texans as a defensive assistant, spent the last four seasons as the linebackers coach and special teams coordinator at the University of Minnesota. In 2010, junior linebacker Gary Tinsley received honorable mention All-Big Ten honors from the conference's media. Two Butler-coached linebackers received all-conference recognition in 2009.

As special teams coordinator, Butler presided over one of the best units in the Big Ten during his tenure in Minneapolis. The Gophers averaged better than 22 yards per kick return in three of his four seasons and held their opponents to less than 20 yards per return in two seasons. Minnesota's punt coverage unit was one of the best in the country in 2008 and 2009, holding opponents to an average of just 8.1 yards per return in that two-year span.

Butler helped then-freshman Troy Stoudermire rank second in the Big Ten and 26th nationally in 2008 with a 25.8-yard kick return average and coached second-team All-Big Ten punter Justin Kucek in 2007 when Kucek averaged 42.7 yards per punt.

Butler has coached special teams for the last 10 years, serving as the linebackers coach and special teams coordinator at Harvard from 2003-06 and the safeties coach and special teams coordinator at Southwest Texas State from 2001-02. He also spent two seasons (1999 and 2000) at Midwestern State where he served as the team's defensive coordinator while mentoring the linebackers and safeties. The 2007 team posted a 7-4 record, the first winning ledger in school history.

While at Harvard, Butler's special teams units annually ranked among the best in the Ivy League, scoring seven total special teams touchdowns during his tenure, including a 2004 season in which the Crimson registered five special teams scores. In 2004, the Crimson won the Ivy League title with a 10-0 record and a No. 12 national ranking.

Born in Philadelphia, the 1995 graduate of Division III Catholic University broke into the coaching ranks as the secondary coach after his senior year of playing before taking over as the defensive coordinator in 1996. His team finished in the top 25 in Division III in total defense that season.

In 1997 and '98, he served as a graduate assistant at the University of Texas under John Mackovic and Mack Brown.

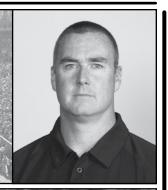

As an undergrad, Butler was a fouryear letterman and three-year starter at Catholic, where he was part of the biggest turnaround in Division III history. The team went 1-9 in his junior season but rebounded with an 8-2 mark in his senior campaign. He was also a two-year letterwinner in basketball and part of the school's 1992-93 NCAA Tournament team.

Butler, 38, and his wife, Carmen, have one child, Manny, born February 22, 2011.

Shawn Elliott begins his second season in Columbia as the Gamecocks' offensive line coach and running game coordinator. The Camden, S.C. native officially joined Coach Spurrier's staff on Jan. 3, 2010, replacing Eric Wolford, who accepted the head coaching position at Youngstown State University in December 2009.

The former Appalachian State offensive line coach's first Gamecock squad showed a tremendous turnaround, especially in the running game, as Carolina averaged 154.4 rushing yards per game to rank eighth in the SEC after finishing last in the league each of the previous three years. His implementation of a new blocking scheme also helped running back Marcus Lattimore set the Carolina freshman record for rushing yards and the all-time single-season touchdown record for the Gamecocks while earning unanimous National Freshman of the Year accolades. Elliott helped convert former walk-on Garrett Chisolm into a second-team All-SEC selection.

Prior to his arrival in Columbia, Elliott had coached his entire career at Appalachian State, where he helped the Mountaineers to three straight national championships (2005-07). After earning his bachelor's degree from Appalachian State in 1996. Elliott worked for two seasons as a defensive assistant, then two seasons as the tight ends coach before taking over the offensive line in 2001. Over his final nine seasons as the offensive line coach at App State, Elliott's players earned All-America distinction on 12 occasions. From 2005-07, he coached three-consecutive SoCon Jacobs Blocking Trophy recipients.

Elliott was the first player in Appalachian State history to appear in the NCAA Division I-AA playoffs four separate seasons. He was a four-year letterwinner for the Black and Gold, helping the squad to two Southern Conference titles. He was a co-captain on the Mountaineers' 1995 squad that finished 12-1 while earning all-league distinction as a defensive end. In his four seasons as a player, the Mountaineers posted a combined record of 36-14.

Elliott was one of three Appalachian State coaches to earn the NCAA's Award of Valor for their efforts in rescuing two individuals from a car accident on Oct. 1, 2000.

Elliott, 38, is married to the former Summer Scruggs, who was ASU's women's tennis Most Valuable Player in 1998. They have two children, a daughter, Maddyn, and a son, Max.

Former University of Tennessee and NFL running back Jay Graham begins his third season at South Carolina. He was hired as the Gamecocks' running backs coach on January 19, 2009 and will be handling the additional duties as the tight ends coach for the 2011 season.

Graham, 36, was nominated for the 2010 Frank Broyles Assistant Coach of the Year Award and was one of four finalists for National Running Backs Coach of the Year by FootballScoop.com after seeing vast improvement in the Carolina rushing attack. His recruitment of tailback Marcus Lattimore was a key in leading the Gamecocks to 154.4 rushing yards per game – an improvement of 33 yards per game from 2009 - with Lattimore averaging 92.1 yards per contest. Lattimore also had three contests with more than 180 rushing yards and set numerous school records, including most yards by a freshman, most carries in a game and the single-season touchdown mark. Under Graham's guidance, Lattimore was a unanimous pick for National Freshman of the Year and SEC Freshman of the Year. In addition, Carolina's running backs lost only two fumbles all split the carries. The foursome of Kenny Miles, Brian Maddox, Jarvis Giles and Bryce Sherman entered the 2009 season with combined totals of just 38 carries for 135 yards (all by Brian Maddox). The quartet, which featured one junior and three freshmen, rushed 280 times for 1,267, an average of 4.5 yards per carry.

During his first season with the Garnet & Black, Graham used four tailbacks to

Graham came to Carolina after spending the 2008 season as the running backs coach at Miami (Ohio) University. He was the only member of the 2008 staff retained by new head coach Mike Haywood for the 2009 campaign.

A former Tennessee Volunteer star and a six-year veteran of the NFL, Graham went to the RedHawks from Tennessee-Martin, where he served one year as running backs coach and recruiting coordinator. Under Graham's tutelage, Skyhawk running backs averaged nearly five yards per carry in 2007.

Graham went to Tennessee-Martin from the University of San Diego where he was the running backs coach and cospecial teams coordinator. He spent the 2006 season as a running backs coach at Chattanooga. In 2005, he worked at his alma mater as an offensive graduate assistant.

Graham rushed for 2,609 yards in his collegiate career (1993-96), ranking sixth on the Volunteers' all-time rushing list. He finished his career ranked second on the all-time carries list with 540, and he scored 25 times in his four-year career as a Volunteer. Graham had single season-best totals in 1995 when he rushed for 1,438 yards on 272 carries, placing him second in both categories in school history. He tallied a career-best 211 yards against Vanderbilt. He also set the school's single-season record for the most 100-yard rushing games with 10.

He was a third-round draft pick in 1997 NFL Draft by the Baltimore Ravens.

Graham spent six seasons in the NFL for three different organizations — Baltimore Ravens (1997-2000) Seattle Seahawks (2001) and Green Bay Packers (2002).

In 2004, Graham returned to the University of Tennessee to finish his undergraduate degree in psychology. He completed his master's of science degree in sports management from UT in 2008.

Graham attended Concord High School in Concord, N.C., where he was a USA Today All-American football player in 1992.

Born in Durham, N.C., Jay and his wife, Kelly, are the parents of two daughters, Nia and Denae, and two sons, Jayson and Kellan.

Johnson "Jeep" Hunter III is in his third season with the Gamecocks. Hunter moves over to the defensive side of the ball in 2011, overseeing the Gamecock safeties. He spent his first two seasons in Columbia coaching the tight ends and serving as an assistant special teams coordinator after being hired on Feb. 3, 2009.

The safety position is not unfamilar territory for Hunter, as much of his early career was spent on the defensive side of the line of scrimmage. In a prior stop at Eastern Kentucky the versatile coach mentored a highly-ranked Division I-AA secondary.

Johnson, 44, oversaw Patrick DiMarco's transition from fullback to tight end in 2010, where the team captain was a key blocker for a much-improved Gamecock rushing attack. DiMarco also had a career-high three touchdowns among his 15 catches for 147 yards.

In 2009, his first season in Columbia, Hunter's top tight end, junior Weslye Saunders, was among the Gamecock leaders with 32 receptions for 353 and and three touchdowns.

Prior to his arrival in the Palmetto State, Hunter spent two seasons (2006-07) as the tight ends coach at Georgia Tech, where he mentored Michael Matthews, who was a member of the 2007 Super Bowl champion New York Giants.

Hunter went to Georgia Tech after working the previous three seasons on Tommy West's staff at Memphis. While at Memphis, he helped coach All-America running back DeAngelo Williams, the nation's leading rusher in 2005 at 178.6 yards per game. Williams rushed for more than 6,000 yards and 55 touchdowns in his career and finished as the NCAA's all-time leader in all-purpose yards. Hunter helped the Tigers reach a bowl game each of his three seasons in Memphis.

A native of Denver, N.C., Hunter went to Memphis in 2003 after two seasons at Eastern Kentucky, where he coached the secondary. In 2001, the Colonels ranked in the top 10 in NCAA Division I-AA in all defensive categories. At Eastern Kentucky, he coached safety Yeremiah Bell, who has gone on to a Pro Bowl career with the Miami Dolphins.

Hunter served an NFL Minority Internship with the St. Louis Rams in the summer of 2001. Prior to that, he spent one season (2000) coaching defensive backs at UT-Chattanooga.

Hunter first worked with Tommy West at Clemson, where he served as a graduate assistant for two seasons (1996-97) and then spent one year as Assistant Athletics Director for Football Management.

Hunter played his collegiate football at Catawba College, an NAIA Division II school in Salisbury, N.C., for three years before suffering a career-ending knee injury. He remained at Catawba as a student assistant coach from 1987-1990 before moving on to Bandys High School in Catawba, N.C., as the assistant head coach, defensive coordinator and special teams coordinator for three seasons (1991-93).

From 1994-96, Hunter was an assistant football coach at North Carolina A&T State University, where he worked with wide receivers, outside linebackers and defensive backs.

Hunter received his bachelor's degree in business administration/physical education from Catawba College in 1991.

He is married to the former Susan Potokar of Cleveland, Ohio. The couple has three children, a daughter, Sophia Marie, and two sons, Joshua and Jude.

Ellis Johnson is in his his fourth season at Carolina. He joined the Gamecocks after logging a brief stint at Arkansas. He serves as the assistant coach in charge of the defense and also handles the linebackers including the Spurs. In addition, he holds the title of Assistant Head Coach.

Johnson has helped mold a defense into one of the best in the country. The 2010 Gamecock squad was third in the SEC and 12th in the country in rushing defense, giving up 112.4 yards per game on the ground and holding opponents under 100 yards nine times, while recording a league-high 41 sacks. His unit also scored six TDs (five interceptions, one fumble return), the most in a single-season at Carolina. Devin Taylor and Stephon Gilmore earned first-team All-SEC recognition.

Led by All-American linebacker Eric Norwood, the 2009 Gamecocks ranked third in the SEC and 15th in the country in total defense. Carolina was also in the upper half in the SEC in scoring defense, rushing defense and passing defense. Cliff Matthews and Chris Culliver also garnered All-SEC recognition.

In 2008, the Gamecocks ranked 13th nationally in total defense and second in pass defense. Carolina surrendered 292 yards per game, including only 159 yards through the air. As a result, Eric Norwood was named first-team All-SEC, while Emanuel Cook and Jasper Brinkley earned second-team honors.

Johnson was one of five finalists for the 2008 Defensive Coordinator of the Year award as selected by FootballScoop.com.

Johnson spent four seasons (2004-07) as the defensive coordinator at Mississippi State under Sylvester Croom. He coached the Bulldog safeties in 2004 and '05 and the inside linebackers in 2006 and '07. In Johnson's final game, the MSU defense yielded just 231 yards of total offense to UCF in the Liberty Bowl, holding the nation's leading rusher, Kevin Smith, to nearly 70 yards below his season average.

Johnson's 29 years as a collegiate coach includes head coaching stops at The Citadel (2001-03) and Gardner Webb (1983). He has logged stints as the defensive coordinator at Appalachian State (1984), Southern Miss (1988-89), Clemson (1995-96), Alabama (1997-2000) and Mississippi State (2004-07). He has coached in four SEC Championship games, has been part of one national title and has had approximately 30 players make NFL rosters.

Johnson logged two stints at Alabama. He was the defensive coordinator and outside linebackers coach from 1997-2000, helping the Tide go 10-3 in 1999 with an SEC title and a spot in the Orange Bowl. His 1999 defense was No. 2 in the nation against the rush and No. 9 in total defense. He served as the outside linebackers coach from 1990-93, helping Gene Stallings' teams go a combined 41-9, including an undefeated national championship year in 1992. Alabama's defense ranked No. 1 that season against the run and in total defense. The Tide ran off a 31-game winning streak and a 34game unbeaten streak from 1991-93. The 1991 squad went 11-1. All four of those teams played in bowl games.

A 1975 graduate of The Citadel, Johnson played defensive end for the Bulldogs. He began his career as the defensive ends coach at his alma mater under Bobby Ross in 1975 before working as an assistant coach at Gaffney (S.C.) High School from 1976-78 and as both an assistant and head coach at Spartanburg (S.C.) High School from 1979-81.

Brad Lawing is in his sixth year of his second stint and his 16th year overall in Columbia. Lawing joined the staff as the defensive line coach in the spring of 2006 and has retained that position.

Lawing has helped Ellis Johnson put together a defensive unit that has been one of the best in the SEC and the nation over the past three years. His 2010 squad set the school record for sacks with 41 and helped the Gamecocks put together the league's third-best and nation's 12th-best rushing defense. Defensive end Devin Taylor earned first-team All-SEC recognition.

In 2009, the Gamecocks finished in the upper half of the SEC in every defensive category and were 15th in the country in total defense.

The Gamecocks finished the 2008 season with the 13th-ranked defense nationally. Carolina showed its most improvement in run defense, allowing 133 yards per game, ranking 43rd in the country, after surrendering 209 yards per game on the ground in 2007 while ranking 110th in the nation.

In 2007, Lawing coached Eric Norwood to All-SEC honors. Norwood finished the season with a school-record 19.5 tackles for loss. Ladi Ajiboye was a second-team Freshman All-American.

In 2006, Lawing pieced together a D-line that had no seniors in the rotation and lost its best interior lineman (Marque Hall) to a season-ending injury early in the campaign. Eric Norwood shared the team lead in sacks while earning first-team Freshman All-America honors.

In his prior 10-year stint at South Carolina (1989-98), Lawing tutored the defensive line and served as recruiting coordinator under Sparky Woods and Brad Scott. During his time in Columbia, he helped produce three NFL players in Corey Miller, Gerald Dixon and Henry Taylor, and coached three All-SEC players in Taylor, nose tackle Eric Sullivan and end Stacy Evans. He also recruited defensive end John Abraham, a four-time NFL Pro Bowl selection.

Between his stops at Carolina, Lawing spent four seasons at Michigan State where he served as defensive line coach and recruiting coordinator. During his tenure, the Spartans led the Big Ten in total defense during the 1999 and 2000 regular seasons. In his first season at MSU, the Spartans led the Big Ten and ranked fifth nationally in rushing defense. Lawing also played an integral part in helping MSU assemble one of the nation's top-20 recruiting classes for three-straight years. He was instrumental in the development of four NFL players, including All-America and first-round draft pick Julian Peterson, Robaire Smith, Jace Sayler and Josh Shaw.

More recently, Lawing spent three seasons as North Carolina's defensive line coach and recruiting coordinator. His three recruiting classes were ranked among the nation's top 25.

Lawing began his college coaching career at Appalachian State. He mentored the defensive line for five years and the tight ends and offensive tackles for one season. Eight of his players earned all-conference honors, including Southern Conference Player of the Year Anthony Downs in 1987 and future NFL players Tommy Dawkins and Mike Frier. Over his final four seasons, the Mountaineers compiled a record of 34-12-2, including back-to-back league championships (1986-87) and consecutive trips to the I-AA playoffs.

A four-year letterwinner in football and a 1979 graduate of Lenoir-Rhyne, Lawing earned a master's degree in athletics administration from Appalachian State in 1985

G.A. Mangus begins his third season as South Carolina's quarterbacks coach.

In his first season, Mangus helped Stephen Garcia rank second in the SEC in passing and was third in the league in total offense, behind only Ryan Mallett and Tim Tebow.

His second season saw marked improvement, as Garcia ranked 22nd in the nation in passing efficiency and moved up the Carolina passing charts to third all-time in yards, completions, attempts and touchdowns. Garcia's completion percentage of 64.2 also was one of the top three seasons in school history.

Mangus's abilities as a coach also spill over into recruiting, as he was named one of the nation's top 25 recruiters by ESPN, Rivals.com and by 247Sports.com in February 2011.

Prior to South Carolina, Mangus was the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Middle Tennessee State for three seasons working under former Gamecock assistant Rick Stockstill.

Before his MTSU days, Mangus took over the Delaware Valley program in May 2002, went 2-8 in his first season, and turned the team into an NCAA Division III championship contender. In the next three seasons Delaware Valley notched a 33-4 record, won three conference championships, and advanced to the national quarterfinals twice.

In 2003, Mangus directed the Aggies to the fifth-greatest one-year turnaround in Division III history. They finished 9-2 and captured the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Southeast Championship, earning him Coach of the Year honors.

In 2004 and 2005, Mangus led the Aggies to perfect back-to-back regular-season records and the team's first overall Middle Atlantic Conference championship. The 2005 squad also earned a MAC title and advanced to the NCAA playoffs. Delaware Valley hosted and won its first two playoff games each season before falling in the quarterfinals, finishing both years with 12-1 marks.

Mangus was named the league's 2004 Coach of the Year for the second year in a row and earned the East Region Coach of the Year Award from Don Hansen's Football Gazette. Mangus was voted the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) Division III Region 2 Coach of the Year. His off-season was capped when he was named the Tri-State Coach of the Year by the Maxwell Football Club.

Mangus was a quarterback at the University of Florida from 1988 to '91, including two years under Steve Spurrier. During that time, he was a member of the school's first SEC championship team in 1991.

Following his graduation in 1992, Mangus remained at Florida for three years, serving in the roles of graduate assistant and assistant offensive line coach. The Gators won two SEC titles (1993 and '94), reached the championship game in 1992 and made three bowl appearances during that time.

Mangus moved on to Widener in February 1995 and was part of the powerhouse program for four seasons. He began as the running backs and quarterbacks coach and was eventually elevated to offensive coordinator. The Pioneers had two eight-win seasons and made two postseason appearances, including a spot in the 1995 Division III playoffs.

Mangus became the assistant head coach and offensive coordinator for Ursinus College in June 1999 and joined a program that had gone 3-7 in 1998. The 1999 squad posted a school-record 10 wins, including its first-ever Division III playoff win. The Bears went 8-2 the following year for their first back-to-back winning seasons since 1954.

Born in Richmond, Va., Mangus, 42, and his wife, Lauren, have two daughters, Grace and Hope.

Steve Spurrier Jr., who has served on the coaching staffs of two national championship teams and tutored a bevy of outstanding receivers at both the collegiate and professional levels, begins his seventh season as the coach of the Gamecock wide receivers.

Spurrier was given the additional title of passing game coordinator beginning with the 2009 season and, beginning in the spring of 2011, added the duties of recruiting coordinator to his resume.

Spurrier helped guide Alshon Jeffery to a school-record season in 2010, as the sophomore amassed over 1,500 receiving yards and nine touchdowns, earning unanimous All-SEC honors, All-America accolades and a nod as a Biletnikoff Award finalist.

In 2009, Spurrier helped Jeffery develop into a consensus first-team Freshman All-American after leading the team in receptions, yards and touchdown catches.

His receivers had another strong year in 2008 as Kenny McKinley became the school's all-time leading receiver in both receptions (207) and receiving yards (2,781), surpassing the records previously held by Sterling Sharpe. McKinley, who missed part of his senior season with an injury, still managed to haul in 54 passes for 642 yards to lead the team and earn honorable mention all-conference recognition.

In 2007, McKinley earned first-team all-league recognition after setting a school record with 77 receptions for 968 yards and nine touchdowns.

In 2006, Spurrier's top two receivers, Sidney Rice and McKinley, combined for 123 catches and 1,970 yards receiving, the top tandem marks in school history. Rice owns two of the top three receiving seasons in Carolina history and set numerous records in just two campaigns in the Garnet and Black.

In his first season with the Gamecocks, Spurrier mentored Rice, who broke nearly every receiving record at the school en route to Freshman All-America honors. Rice ended the campaign as the school's single-season receiving yards leader after catching 70 passes for 1,143 yards.

Spurrier brought 11 years of coaching experience to Carolina, with his most recent stop being at the University of Arizona under head coach Mike Stoops.

He spent two seasons as wide receivers coach in the NFL with Washington. While with the Redskins, Spurrier Jr. coached Laveraneus Coles, whose 2003 receiving totals of 82 receptions for 1,204 yards earned him his only Pro Bowl appearance. He also coached Rod Gardner, who was Washington's leading receiver in 2002 with 1,007 yards.

Spurrier was part of Bob Stoops' rebuilding project at Oklahoma, which culminated with a perfect 13-0 record and national championship in 2000. He spent three seasons as the Sooners' wide receivers coach, working with such standouts as Mark Clayton and Josh Norman.

Prior to his stay in Norman, Spurrier worked at Florida for five seasons and was part of the Gators' 1996 national championship club.

During his collegiate coaching career, he has been involved with 13 postseason bowl teams, four conference championships (three SEC and one Big 12) and two national championships (Florida 1996 and Oklahoma 2000).

Born in Palo Alto, Calif., Spurrier played collegiate football at Duke University, where he earned his bachelor's degree in 1994. He later earned a master's degree at Florida in 1996.

Spurrier, 39, and his wife, the former Melissa Beauchamp, are the parents of triplets, Luke, Gavin and Emmaline (10); Nolan (4); and twins, Palmer and Hayden (1).
