

NCAA DI Women's All-America Teams announced by United Soccer Coaches

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (November 30, 2016) – United Soccer Coaches announced on Thursday the 2017 NCAA Division I Women's All-America Teams on the eve of the College Cup semifinals in Orlando.

A total of 41 players receive All-America recognition this year, led by a trio of three-time All-Americans: Georgetown University midfielder Rachel Corboz, Stanford University midfielder Andi Sullivan and University of South Carolina forward Savannah McCaskill.

This year's NCAA Division I All-Americans, along with their families and coaches, will be formally acknowledged for their accomplishments at the United Soccer Coaches All-America Luncheon on January 20, 2018 at the Pennsylvania Convention Center in conjunction with the 2018 United Soccer Coaches Convention in downtown Philadelphia.

In addition, the 2017 NCAA Division I Women's All-Region Teams have been posted in the "Awards Central" section of UnitedSoccerCoaches.org.
