

100 Years of Basketball Celebration Tip-Off

To tip-off the University of South Carolina's 100 Years of Basketball Celebration, South Carolina held a welcome back rally prior to the press conference in July. USC hosted a number of former players for the rally and press conference including former two-time ACC Player of the Year John Roche (left) and all-time leading scorer BJ McKie (above).

100 YEARS FACT: BJ McKie is USC's all-time leading scorer and also won the 1999 SEC Community Service Award.

100 Years of Basketball Celebration Tip-Off

A number of former players attended the press conference (above) hosted by USC Head Coach Dave Odom (right). The late Grady Wallace's wife, Marianne, and their grandson joined the other retired jersey's (bottom) John Roche, Kevin Joyce and BJ McKie at the front. The fifth retired jersey, Alex English, could not attend due to a prior commitment.

NBA at the Colonial Center -- Knicks vs. Sixers

For the third year in a row, the University of South Carolina and the Colonial Center hosted an NBA preseason game. On Oct. 8, the New York Knicks defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 101-92 behind David Lee's 18 points. Other NBA teams to play in Columbia the last three years included the World Champion San Antonio Spurs, the Charlotte Bobcats and the Indiana Pacers.

Former Gamecock Renaldo Balkman (left) was forced to watch after being injured in training camp.

100 YEARS FACT: USC won its first overtime game in 1917 - a 40-35 win over Porter Military Academy.
