The South Carolina Gamecocks embark on Year Four of the Steve Spurrier Era with cautious optimism.

On paper, the Gamecocks have maybe their most talented and deepest squad since Coach Spurrier's arrival in Columbia. A 6-1 start to the 2007 campaign certainly raised the hopes and expectations of the Gamecock Nation. However, a season-ending five-game losing streak tempered the enthusiasm just a bit. With another difficult schedule that features the likes of Georgia, LSU, Tennessee, Florida and Clemson, the Gamecock faithful wonder if this will be the year South Carolina challenges for the SEC Eastern Division title and a trip to Atlanta for the SEC Championship Game.

With 53 lettermen and 16-of-22 starters returning, including 10 on defense, the Gamecocks have an experienced nucleus and the depth in place to withstand the rigors of that challenging schedule. The biggest question entering the season figures to be at quarterback, but who better to "coach up" an unheralded signal-caller than the Head Ball Coach himself?

The offense will undergo a subtle change, as Coach Spurrier will hand off more of the play-calling duties to his son, wide receivers coach Steve Spurrier Jr. The changes on defense figure to be more pronounced, as Ellis Johnson takes over as defensive coordinator after a successful stint at Mississippi State. The special teams will also have a new leader, as Ray Rychleski, regarded as one of the nation's top special teams coach, joins the Gamecock staff after an excellent run at Maryland.

Offense

2007 Statistics (Rank)

Scoring Offense.....	26.1 (70)
Rushing Offense.....	113.7 (101)
Passing Offense.....	258.2 (37)
Total Offense.....	371.8 (77)

The South Carolina offense features six returning starters, including four on the offensive line and both wide receivers, but must find a replacement for quarterback Blake Mitchell, who, despite having an up-and-down career, took the bulk of the snaps over the past three seasons. The Gamecocks must also replace tailback Cory Boyd, who was not only a productive player on the field, but exhibited strong leadership in the locker room.

In the spring, Coach Spurrier announced that he would allow Steve Spurrier Jr. to make more of the offensive play calls. But don't expect wholesale changes in how the Gamecocks attack. The two have worked closely together for a number of years, and no one knows the father's wishes better than the son.

The biggest question for the Gamecocks entering the fall is at quarterback where a replacement for Blake Mitchell must be found. Although Mitchell had somewhat of a checkered career in the Garnet & Black, he still left as one of the top five passers in Gamecock history in pass attempts, pass completions, completion percentage, passing touchdowns and passing yards.

Junior Tommy Beecher and sophomore Chris Smelley went head-to-head in the spring, battling for the right to be the number one signal-caller. When the dust settled, Beecher earned the number one tag entering the fall, but certainly not by a landslide. Expect the competition to continue during the early fall camp and possibly throughout the 2008 campaign.

Beecher is a heady athlete who won the Andrew Sorensen Scholar-Athlete Award, given to the player with the highest GPA. On the field, he has completed 64 percent of his passes (16-of-25) with a pair of touchdowns, but has yet to make a start for the Garnet & Black. By naming him the starter entering the fall, Coach Spurrier is hoping that Beecher comes into the fall with the confidence necessary to lead his team to victory in the rugged Southeastern Conference.

Smelley is the more seasoned of the two signal-callers. He has made six career starts, logging a 4-2 record in those contests. Smelley has completed 57 percent of his passes (101-for-177) for 1,288 yards and nine touchdowns in his career. He will no doubt be a factor before the 2008 season is over.

Redshirt freshman Stephen Garcia has made plenty of headlines in his short time at Carolina, but has yet to make an impact on the field. The strong-armed gunslinger from Tampa, Fla., has shown an ability to escape a pass rush and keep a play alive, something that Coach Spurrier would like to see more out of his quarterback. Garcia, who may be the most athletically gifted of the quarterbacks, needs to show that he has a complete understanding of the offense to work his way onto the field.

Freshman Aramis Hillary is another athletic quarterback who has caught Coach Spurrier's eye. He could see some early action as a change of pace where he's allowed to use his feet as much as his arm.

Tommy Beecher

Freshman Reid McCollum is a more traditional dropback passer. He comes from a highly successful high school program at Summerville, but is a candidate to redshirt during his first season on campus.

Michael McQueeney, who played as a freshman at Western Carolina before deciding to try his hand at Division I football, and Zac Brindise, whose brother, Noah, played for Coach Spurrier at Florida, are two walk-on QBs in camp.

Lettermen Lost

Cory Boyd

The Gamecocks have a big void to fill in the backfield as they lost their leader in Cory Boyd, who led the team with 903 rushing yards and nine TDs before being selected by the Tampa Bay Bucs in the 2008 NFL Draft.

Senior Mike Davis figures to get the first shot at taking the bulk of the carries this fall. Davis led the team in rushing in 2005 and has been second on the squad in each of the past two seasons while sharing the load with Boyd. He has gained 1,658 rushing yards in his career and owns three 100-yard rushing games. He also became a better leader in the spring.

Mike Davis

Sophomore Brian Maddox should make a strong push for more playing time this fall. Maddox was used primarily on special teams as a true freshman last season but really showed improvement in the spring with additional reps, solidifying his spot on the depth chart.

Senior Bobby Wallace and junior Taylor Rank both have shown flashes of ability when given the opportunity. Wallace, who was hampered by injuries throughout 2007, had his best game against Middle Tennessee in 2006 when he carried just three times but gained 98 yards, including an 88-yard touchdown burst, the fourth-longest run in school history and the longest since 1991. Rank, who has been used primarily on special teams, was forced into the starting role against Florida Atlantic in 2006 and responded with a 100-yard rushing day in his only career start.

Freshman Eric Baker, who played last fall at Fork Union Military, joined the squad in January and went through spring drills. He's a natural runner who can do some good things with the ball in his hands.

Freshman Kenny Miles will join the squad this fall. He is more of a between the tackles runner, but can break outside on occasion and is able to pick up the extra yards with a penchant for falling forward.

Lanard Stafford

The Gamecocks primarily use their fullbacks to block, rather than carry the pigskin, but must find a replacement for Lanard Stafford, a former walk-on lineman who worked his way into becoming a two-year starter.

Sophomore Patrick DiMarco was one of the more pleasant surprises as a true freshman last fall. DiMarco worked his way into some significant playing time and caught four passes, including a touchdown in the win over Kentucky. He figures to be the starter, but there has also been some discussion of using him at tight end to get him on the field on a more consistent basis.

Former walk-on Bryan Kingrey made one start in the 2006 season and is a quality backup. He is a hard worker who continues to improve.

Senior Yvan Banag made the transition from the defensive side of the ball to fullback in the spring and brings a toughness to the group. He is also a valuable special teams contributor.

Jim Hutton adds depth.

Carolina features a talented group of receivers - the best receiving corps overall since Coach Spurrier's arrival in Columbia - led by an All-America candidate in Kenny McKinley.

McKinley stepped into the number one receiver role last fall following the early departure of Sidney Rice to the NFL, and turned in one of the most productive seasons in Carolina history en route to first team All-SEC accolades. McKinley caught a school-record 77 passes for 968 yards and nine touchdowns and owns 153 career receptions for 2,139 yards and 15 scores. He should leave Carolina as the career record-holder in nearly all receiving categories.

Kenny McKinley

Senior Larry Freeman and juniors Freddie Brown and Moe Brown are the only other scholarship upperclassmen at wide receiver. Freeman was a junior college transfer who struggled at times in making the transition to the Division I level, but should feel more comfortable this time around and is coming off a solid spring. Freddie Brown has solid hands and is a dependable possession-type receiver, while Moe Brown, who may be the fastest of the wide receiver corps, has the speed to catch the deep ball.

A quartet of second-year players figure heavily in the plans again this season. The group, which has thinned out somewhat with Chris Culliver and Mark Barnes finding homes on the defensive side of the ball, was rated as the top recruited receiving corps coming out of high school in 2007 and had varying degrees of success in their first collegiate season. Dion LeCorn had the most success, catching 27 passes for 315 yards, including an eight-catch, 109-yard performance against Arkansas. He caught 16 passes over the last three games after not logging a reception in the season's first four contests. Jason Barnes, Joe Hills and Matt Clements all have a world of potential, but injuries kept them sidelined for much of the 2007 campaign. Barnes and Hills have excellent size, while Clements is an excellent athlete. All three should figure into the rotation this fall with solid fall camps.

C.C. Whitlock, one of the most acclaimed recruits for the 2008 season, is a versatile performer who had a long look at wide receiver in the spring. He has excellent quickness but has a lot to learn to be more than an occasional contributor this fall.

A trio of walk-ons round out the returning wide receiving corps, including Paul Haile, Scott Spurrier and Stephen Flint.

Tori Childers and D.L. Moore will join the squad in the fall.

Andy Boyd

It's unusual to discuss Carolina tight ends without mentioning Andy Boyd. Boyd, who had a six-year run with the program, is now a graduate assistant in the strength & conditioning program at South Carolina. Despite the loss, new coach Ray Rychleski is excited about Boyd's replacements. The Gamecocks may not be loaded with depth at the tight end position, but their first two may be as good as any two in the league.

Junior Jared Cook was the team's third-leading receiver a year ago, catching 30 passes for 421 yards, an average of 14.0 yards per catch, which was the highest on the team of any player with more than two receptions. He has the size and speed that will create matchup problems for a lot of defenses. He has all the tools and now has the experience for a breakout year.

Sophomore

Weslye Saunders had an impressive freshman season, catching 12 passes for 151 yards, earning third team Freshman All-America honors from CollegeFootballNews.com. Blessed with excellent size, Saunders showed marked improvement in the spring and is a great complement to Cook.

Weslye Saunders

Sophomore Nick Prochak was impressive during the spring drills of 2007, but suffered a broken leg in an off-season accident and did not participate in the spring. He has been working hard on his rehabilitation and hopes to get back on the field this fall.

Sophomore Clark Gaston, who has been hampered by injuries throughout much of his Carolina career, adds depth at tight end after working as a fullback, as do senior Alex McGrath, who lettered as a special teams performer in 2006, and sophomore walk-on Foxy Foxworth.

Mike Triglia could help as a true freshman in two-tight end sets.

With the loss of just one starter, center William Brown, due to graduation, the Gamecock offensive line has the most returning numbers it has had since the Spurrier regime took over three years ago.

A pair of returning fifth-year senior starters are the bookend offensive tackles with Jamon Meredith manning the left side and Justin Sorensen holding down the right. Meredith has made 29 career starts and is capable of being an all-conference performer and a player that NFL scouts will be watching closely this fall. Sorensen has started each of the last 18 games in a row and was an early pick in the Canadian draft this past spring.

Gurminder Thind is the third senior O-lineman on the roster and, like Sorensen, hails from Canada. Thind has played both guard and tackle at USC, but is fighting back ailments and his career could be in jeopardy.

Sophomore Hutch Eckerson, who sat out the 2007 season as a redshirt after starting five games in 2006, could also push for the starting role at either tackle position. He is especially adept in pass protection.

Junior Lemuel Jeanpierre and sophomore Heath Batchelor enter the fall listed on the first team at left and right guard, respectively. Jeanpierre is a former defensive lineman who possesses the strength and athleticism to become a solid player. Batchelor became an anchor at right guard as the '07 season progressed, sliding down from tackle, and is capable of becoming an All-SEC performer before his Carolina days are over.

Sophomore Seaver Brown came out of the spring drills listed as the number one center ahead of junior Garrett Anderson in the battle to replace William Brown. Seaver Brown is actually the incumbent at left guard after making six starts there a year ago, while Anderson has started eight games at guard over the past two seasons.

Sophomore Kevin Young has potential to be a starter, but has been hampered by injuries since his arrival in Columbia. He missed most of the spring with a shoulder injury.

Sophomores Pierre Andrews and Terrence Campbell, a converted defensive lineman, are both listed as second-team guards entering the fall.

Tackles Quintin Richardson and Kyle Nunn, along with center Ryan Broadhead took redshirt seasons as freshmen last fall to get bigger and stronger in the weight room.

Junior walk-on Hardee Sanders adds depth, while T.J. Johnson and Elliot Williams are freshmen who will join the squad in the fall.

Gamecocks were solid in the secondary a year ago, featuring the nation's fourth-best pass defense, but struggled stopping the run. The return of defensive tackle Nathan Pepper and linebacker Jasper Brinkley along with the Lindsey twins, Jordin and Dustin, will help shore up the run defense.

With another year of experience under their collective belts and another off-season in Mark Smith's weight room, the Gamecocks should be solid along the defensive front.

The unit should be led by a pair of standout sophomores in defensive tackle Ladi Ajiboye and defensive end Cliff Matthews.

Ajiboye garnered the most post-season acclaim of the Carolina freshmen in 2007, earning second-team Freshman All-America honors from the Sporting News. He is considered the team's best run stopper and best pass rusher. The very athletic Matthews was impressive in his first season in the Garnet & Black, earning a spot on both the coaches' and the Sporting News Freshman All-SEC squad after making nine starts at linebacker.

While Ajiboye and Matthews are young and talented, the veteran leadership will come from seniors Jordin Lindsey and Marque Hall. Lindsey took a redshirt season in 2007 after making 15 starts at defensive end over the previous two campaigns. The last time he was on the field he was named Carolina's Outstanding Defensive Player in the 2006 Liberty Bowl win over Houston. Hall is a fifth-year player who started eight contests last fall at less than 100 percent after missing most of the 2006 season with a knee injury.

Defensive line coach Brad Lawing likes to keep fresh bodies on the field at all times, so a productive second unit is imperative for the Gamecocks' success. A pair of sophomore defensive ends, Clifton Geathers and Travian Robertson, both gained experience as true freshmen last fall and figure to make a greater contribution this year after an off-season in the weight room. Both Geathers (6-7, 290) and Robertson (6-4, 270) have excellent size.

Ladi Ajiboye

On the inside, Jonathan Williams and Nathan Pepper figure to be in the mix. Williams, who transferred to Carolina after two years in junior college, is back for his final campaign and was the most improved defensive tackle in the spring. Pepper was the starter in 15 of the 16 games prior to suffering a season-ending knee-injury against South Carolina State last fall. He was held out in the spring, but hopes to be at full strength in the fall.

A pair of redshirt freshmen, defensive end Byron McKnight and defensive tackle Donte'e Nicholls, will try to work their way into the rotation. Defensive tackle Jamarial Brown and defensive end Darantzy Brunson are a pair of walk-ons who add depth.

Four newcomers will look to contribute this fall. Jarriel King is a junior college transfer who has all the tools to make an immediate impact. Ronald Byrd, Kenny Davis and Devin Taylor are all true freshmen who will be learning the ropes of Division I football.

The Gamecocks sorely missed the run-stopping ability of middle linebacker Jasper Brinkley when he went out with a season-ending knee injury in the fourth game of the 2007 season. Brinkley, who was a first team All-SEC selection in 2006 and an All-America candidate prior to the 2007 season, returns for his final year to man the middle of the Carolina defense. Although he did not see much action in the spring, Brinkley should be at full strength when NC State visits Columbia in late August.

Jasper Brinkley

While the return of Brinkley is huge for the Gamecock defense, the linebacking corps has several other players returning who have played significant roles.

Junior Eric Norwood, who was an all-conference performer at defensive end, transitioned to an outside linebacker position in the spring. The versatile performer who set a school record in 2007 with 19.5 tackles for loss and has 13.0 sacks in his first two seasons in the Garnet & Black, will be able to blitz and also help out in pass coverage.

Junior Rodney Paulk, a local product from Columbia's Richland Northeast High School, has made 22 starts over the past two seasons, the third-highest total on the squad. He has accounted for 100 tackles in his USC career.

Three-year letterwinner Marvin Sapp stepped in as the starter at middle linebacker last fall when Brinkley went down with the injury and performed admirably, figuring in on 61 tackles.

The linebacking unit will also get a boost from the return of senior Dustin Lindsey. Lindsey, a fifth-year senior, figured to get plenty of action last fall, but suffered a knee injury during the 2007 Garnet & Black Spring Game, and was limited to one brief appearance. If he's healthy, he could be a big boost to stopping the run.

Junior Gerrod Sinclair has played in 23 games over the past two seasons and enters the fall listed as the first team strongside linebacker. He is a steady performer who has the coaches' confidence.

Sophomore Melvin Ingram has good size at 6-2, and 255 pounds to play in the middle, but also has shown good speed. He needs to become more consistent to see more regular playing time.

Juniors Vandaral Shackelford and Damien Wright add depth. Shackelford has shown flashes of brilliance, but needs to gain consistency.

Alonzo Winfield is a redshirt freshman who will try to work his way into the mix, as will incoming freshmen Antonio Allen and Shaq Wilson, who went through spring drills. John Guerry is a solid walk-on to the squad.

Reggie Bowens and Chaz Sutton hope to make an early impression when they arrive this fall.

The Gamecocks return all of their scholarship players at cornerback, led by first-team All-SEC pick Captain Munnerlyn. Despite his stature (5-9, 185), the junior from Mobile, Ala., is fearless and is considered the best cover corner on the squad. He intercepted three passes a season ago and has five picks in his career.

Senior Carlos Thomas figures to get the nod at the other starting cornerback position. The senior has made 20 starts in his Carolina career and has worked hard to become more physical.

Thomas will try to hold off a hard charge from freshman Akeem Auguste and senior Stoney Woodson. Auguste was impressive in the spring after enrolling in school in January. Woodson is experienced, making 13 starts during his career. He has also spent time at safety.

Sophomore Addison Williams was thrown into the fire last season as injuries began to mount. He benefited from going through his first spring drills.

Jamire Williams, who possesses exceptional speed, was redshirted last fall. Jay Spearman is a true freshman who joined the squad in time to go through spring drills, but was hampered by a shoulder injury, which may affect his status for the 2008 campaign.

Mike Newton and Cedrick Snead are a pair of walk-ons who round out the returnees at cornerback. Newton earned a letter for his efforts.

Carolina returns both of its starting safeties from a year ago. Junior strong safety Emanuel Cook heads the list of returning players. A member of the All-Mayday Team as selected by ESPN's Mark May and a second-team All-SEC performer, Cook overcame an appendectomy just before the start of the season to become the team's leading tackler.

He's a candidate for all-league recognition again in '08.

Junior Darian Stewart is atop the depth chart at free safety entering the fall after starting 10 games a season ago and earning Defensive Player of the Spring accolades. He showed a nose for the football with two interceptions, two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries.

Junior Chris Hail is the only other safety on the roster who has seen any playing time at the position.

The position was solidified in the spring, however, as sophomores Chris Culliver and Mark Barnes both made the transition from wide receiver. Both players adapted to their new situations well and are listed as second teamers entering the fall, with Culliver listed at free safety behind Stewart and Barnes at strong safety behind Cook.

Jarrett Burns and Darrell Simmons are a pair of freshmen who will join the squad in the fall.

Blake Baxley is a walk-on who adds depth.

The Gamecocks have one of the nation's top returning placekickers in senior Ryan Succop. Succop was an honorable mention All-SEC pick in 2007 after earning second-team honors in 2006. A candidate for the Lou Groza Award, which recognizes the nation's top placekicker, Succop is 16-for-17 in his career from inside 40 yards and owns two field goals of 50-plus yards.

Junior Nate Spurrier figures to be next in line for the placekicking chores behind Succop.

The entire placement team returns with sophomore Charles Turner handling the snapping duties and junior Tommy Beecher serving as the holder.

Redshirt freshman Chris Vaughn is the backup deep snapper, while Matthew Grooms adds depth. Scott Spurrier and Spencer Lanning are the backup holders.

Ryan Succop also handled the punting chores a season ago and could again this season. His average was down a bit last fall to 41.6 yards per punt after averaging 43.7 yards in 2006, but he also logged nearly twice as many punts (56) in 2007 as he did in '06 (29). Spencer Lanning and freshman Ryan Doerr could challenge Succop for those duties this fall. Charles Turner handles the deep snaps on punts.

Chris Culliver handled the bulk of the kick return duties in 2007, returning 34 kicks for 809 yards, the second-highest yard total in school history. He was named to the All-SEC Freshmen team as a kick returner after averaging 23.8 yards per return. Captain Munnerlyn and Moe Brown are also potential kickoff returners, but other names could surface in the fall.

Captain Munnerlyn did a solid job in the punt return game in '07, returning 18 punts for 165 yards, including a career-best 46 yard effort against Vanderbilt. He was seventh in the SEC among punt returners, averaging 9.2 yards per return. Kenny McKinley has returned 39 punts during his USC career and has the surest hands. Akeem Auguste could also get a look.

A LITTLE HISTORY: The 2008 campaign will mark the 115th season of college football at South Carolina, dating back to 1892. The university did not field a team in either 1893 or 1906. This will mark the 102nd consecutive year in which Carolina has fielded a football squad. USC owns an all-time record of 521-523-44. The school's only league title came in 1969 when it went 6-0 to win the ACC crown.

THAT WAS TOUGH: The Gamecocks had one of the nation's toughest schedules in 2007, facing five ranked opponents during the regular season. According to the NCAA, Carolina's schedule was ranked as the ninth-toughest in Division I football. Eight of South Carolina's 12 opponents in 2007 played in a bowl game, with five of those teams posting bowl victories. The Gamecocks posted three wins over bowl teams.

UNDER SPURRIER: Head coach Steve Spurrier is 21-16 after three seasons in Columbia. He has the most wins by a Carolina head coach in his first three seasons (21), topping Joe Morrison's mark of 20 from 1983-85.

ROTATING OFF AND ON: With the rotation schedule of SEC West opponents, the Gamecocks drop Mississippi State from their schedule and pick up Ole Miss for the next two seasons. The Oct. 4 game will mark Carolina's first trip to Oxford since the 2003 season. LSU will remain on the schedule for one more year.

THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL: For the fourth-straight season, the Gamecocks will play a Thursday night contest in 2008. Actually, they will play two - the first two games of the season. They open at home against NC State on Aug. 28, then travel to Nashville to face the Vanderbilt Commodores on Thursday, Sept. 4. Carolina opened its 2005 season on a Thursday night with a win against Central Florida. In 2006, the Gamecocks opened the season at Mississippi State on a Thursday and came away with a 15-0 win. They also lost a mid-season Thursday night contest at home to Auburn. In 2007, they defeated eighth-ranked Kentucky at home on a Thursday night. They are 3-1 over the past three years in Thursday night specials.
