2009 SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE WOMEN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS

Friday, April 17-
Sunday, April 19

University Club at Cobblestone Park
Blythewood, S.C.

Gamecocks Prepare to Host SEC Championships

For the first time since the 1997 season, the University of South Carolina will host the SEC Women's Golf Championships at the University Club at Cobblestone Park. The tournament runs Friday-Sunday, April 17-19, with tee times beginning at 8:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday and at 8 a.m. Sunday.

Finishing on a High Note

South Carolina comes into the SEC Championships fresh off a solid performance at the Bryan National Collegiate in Browns Summit, N.C., April 3-5. The Gamecocks turned in a sixth-place finish among a strong 18-team field, climbing from 10th place on the first day to equal their season-best showing. Junior Benedicte Toumpsin led the way for South Carolina with a tie for 13th place with a score of 79-73-74=226 (+10). Freshman Katie Burnett was a stroke behind Toumpsin with a 75-77-75=227 (+11). Junior Taylor Barrett provided the highlight of the tournament for South Carolina. The native of York, S.C., rebounded from a tough 84 on the first day to post rounds of 74 and 71 on Saturday and Sunday. Her 1-under 71 in the final round was her best round of the season and was one of only 11 rounds under par throughout the entire three-day tournament.

"Benny" Brilliant on the Bayou

Benedicte Toumpsin put together the best 54 holes of her collegiate career at the LSU Golf Classic March 13-15 in Baton Rouge, La., tying for first place at the annual event. Her bogey-free, final-round 68 (-4) marked the best final-round score in school history as she rallied to tie for the tournament title before falling on the second hole of a three-way playoff with Virginia's Calle Nielson and Arkansas' Lucy Nunn. Toumpsin tied her career-best 18-hole round with her final-round 68 and carded three straight rounds under par for the first time in her collegiate career - 70-71-68=209 (-7).

Her tie for first marked the highest finish for a South Carolina golfer since her victory at last season's NCAA East Regional. Her score of 209 also tied for the second-lowest 54-hole total in school history, matching a pair of efforts by current LPGA star Kristy McPherson, who shot 209 at the 2002 SEC Championship and the 2003 NCAA East Regional. As a team, South Carolina shot 287 (-1) in the final round en route to a 10th-place finish. It was the first time in school history that the Gamecocks finished in red figures in the final round of a tournament.

Youth Movement

Some of the best play for South Carolina has come from its freshmen, namely Katie Burnett. The freshman from Brunswick, Ga., has turned in four top-20 performances on the year, including an eighth-place showing in her first-ever collegiate competition at the season-opening Cougar Classic Sept. 14-16. Burnett carries a stroke average of 75.42, second-best on the team, and had a 17th-place finish at the Lady Tar Heel Invite, 16th at the LSU Classic and 20th at the Bryan National Collegiate. Fellow freshman Cayci Ruppe has played well of late, grabbing a career-best 32nd-place finish at the Bryan National Collegiate with a score of 229 (+13).

Recapping the 2008 Championships

South Carolina held steady in the final round to finish fifth at the SEC Championship at Tennessee National. The Gamecocks shot their tournament-best round of 296 (+8) on the final day to finish with a total of 915. Sophomore Bénédicte Toumpsin turned in steady rounds of 72 each day to finish third in the tournament, the highest Gamecock finish since Kristy McPherson took third in the 2003 event. Toumpsin's tournament total of 216 (E) was the lowest round by a South Carolina player at the SEC Championship since McPherson's 209 won the event in 2002 and was two strokes behind tournament winner and defending NCAA champion Stacy Lewis' 214 (-2). Her final round featured two birdies on each half of the course, including a tournament-capping one on 18 to get back to even par for the round. Sophomore Taylor Barrett finished 14th with a 226 (+10), senior Camila Mori finished 36th with 237 (+21), and senior Blythe Worley was 46th at 241 (+25). Senior Whitney Simons was disqualified for signing an incorrect scorecard after the second round.

Florida held onto its 36-hole lead and ran away from the field on the final day, shooting a tournament-best 284 Sunday to finish at 874 (+10), 17 strokes ahead of Arkansas, as the Gators collected their eighth SEC title. Arkansas' Lewis won her second individual SEC title in three years and her sixth victory of the season. With rounds of 69, 73 and 72, she led at the end of each round and held off a late charge from Florida's Hannah Yun.

South Carolina's History in the SEC Championships

The Gamecocks found themselves on top of the SEC golf world in 2002 when they held off Auburn by three strokes to claim their first Southeastern Conference title. Led by Kristy McPherson's second straight SEC Championship effort of 209 (-7), South Carolina shot a school-record 54-hole total of 861 (-3) to claim the team title. The score of 861 is an SEC Championship record that still stands today.

McPherson became the second player in history to win back-to-back SEC titles, joining Florida's Deb Richard (1982-1984) as the only players to accomplish the feat.

South Carolina has one championship (2002), one runner-up finish (1995) and four finishes of third place (1992-93, 1996, 2001), now in its 18th year of competition in the Southeastern Conference.

The last time the championship was held at Cobblestone Park, the Gamecocks finished fourth out of the 12 teams with a score of 910 (+22) and got a pair of sixth-place finishes from Camila Faaborg-Andersen and Rebekah Lee. Georgia took the team title that year with a score of 899 (+11), and the Bulldogs' Shauna Estes was the individual medalist at 215 (-1).
