The University of South Carolina Athletics Communications and Public Relations department's mission is to strategically provide communication between the athletics department and its internal and external constituents, increase awareness of and interest in Gamecock Athletics and to publicize the activities and achievements of the student-athletes, coaches, teams and the athletics department.

We understand the importance of assisting the media in providing coverage of the University, its athletics programs, administrators, coaches and student-athletes. Our goal is to disseminate information as widely, uniformly and fairly as possible using accepted media standards. To this end, the best attempt will be made to fill reasonable requests by recognized media outlets. Members of the media are encouraged to work with our staff to assist in that endeavor.

*Under a Carolina sky I stand.
Under the palmettos and beneath the crescent moon.*

I am a structure forged from concrete and time.

As strong as our pride, as enduring as our passion, tradition originates from my core.

*History echoes through my walls.
For seven decades, I've given rise to legends and today, I await the next one.*

I am not a desert, but a Sandstorm builds within me.

I am a sea of garnet and black with a sound that doesn't just pierce the air, it penetrates your soul.

I am the place where every odyssey starts with 2001.

Where your wakeup call is our battle cry.

Trespassers beware, to enter, is to sacrifice.

It is Saturday in South Carolina.

Welcome to Williams-Brice.

TRUST THE WAIT.
Embrace the uncertainty.
Enjoy the beauty of becoming.
When nothing is certain,
anything is possible.

- MANDY HALE -

There has not been a time where there has been more uncertainty heading into a college football season.

With the coronavirus sweeping the nation, the entire 2020 season is in limbo heading into the summer months. Uncertainty swirls, whether games will be played at all, whether the season will be delayed or abbreviated in any fashion, and what the stadiums will look like if and when football returns, with social distancing and personal protective equipment the norm.

At the University of South Carolina, fifth-year head coach Will Muschamp often quotes Charles R. Swindoll saying, "Life is 10 percent what happens to you and 90 percent how you react to it." Coach Muschamp and the 2020 Gamecocks look to embrace the uncertainty that abounds and, when nothing is certain, anything is possible.

After posting the most wins in the first three seasons of any South Carolina head football coach, but then enduring a disappointing 4-8 campaign against albeit one of the nation's toughest schedules, Coach Muschamp is anxious to prove that 2019 was an aberration and just a minor step back in a program that has been building brick-by-brick and now has a foundation on as solid of footing as it has ever been.

With a high resolve to ensure 2019 would not be repeated, Coach Muschamp aggressively evaluated his program from top to bottom and addressed several issues in the off-season, most notably with his coaching staff. Only four assistant coaches - tight ends coach Bobby Bentley, offensive line coach Eric Wolford, outside linebackers coach Mike Peterson and defensive coordinator/defensive backs coach Travaris Robinson - return in the same role as a season ago.

The most prominent change occurs on the offensive side of the ball, where Coach Muschamp brought in former Colorado State head coach Mike Bobo to coordinate the attack and mentor the quarterbacks. Bobo has a long track record of success in the SEC at Georgia and began to implement his vernacular and system in the spring. Bobo brought Joe Cox along with him from Fort Collins. Cox, who is originally from Charlotte, also played at Georgia, and is considered a rising star in the profession. He has been put in charge of the Gamecock wide receivers. Veteran assistant coach Deshaun Kitchens, who hails from Wagener, S.C., returns to his home state and will coach the running backs. Both Cox and Kitchens have solid reputations on the recruiting trails as well as having the ability to get the most out of the talent already on campus.

On the defensive side of the ball, veteran SEC legend Tracy Rocker joins the staff as the defensive line coach, while former Gamecock captain Rod Wilson returns to Columbia as the linebackers coach. Wilson, a Cross, S.C. native who captained the 2004 Gamecocks, was most recently with the Super Bowl Champion Kansas City Chiefs.

The Gamecocks also had a changing of the guard with their special teams units, as Kyle Krantz, who served as an assistant in that area for the past two years, takes over as the coordinator, in addition to his duties with the defensive backs.

Coach Muschamp also made significant changes in some off-the-field positions, the most notably coming in the weight room, where an entirely new staff, under the direction of Paul Jackson, has taken over the strength and conditioning aspect of Gamecock Football. Jackson, who most recently worked at Ole Miss, is joined by Scott Salwasser, Anthony Henderson, Julian Whitehead and Jordan Sims. Drew Hughes re-unites with Coach Muschamp as the Director of Player Personnel. The two previously worked together for a year at Florida. In addition, Gamecock Great Connor Shaw returned to Columbia in the spring as the Director of Football Student-Athlete Development, and his contributions were evident immediately, as the players worked through the challenges of being separated for much of the spring.

With the coaching staff solidified and a host of midseason enrollees on campus, the Gamecocks were ready to hit the practice fields for spring ball. However, after just five practices, the coronavirus pandemic ended the drills prematurely and put the 2020 season in flux. So Coach Muschamp and his staff would have to wait a little longer to install the new offense, tweak the defense and crystalize this year's team identity.

When fall camp finally opens, the Gamecocks return 43 letterwinners, including 13 starters, six on both sides of the ball, along with their placekicker from 2019. Carolina returns just 20 percent of its rushing yards, 95 percent of its passing yards and 43 percent of its receiving yards, along with six of its top eight tacklers from a year ago.

Although it would be hard to match the difficulty of last year's regular-season schedule, another challenging slate awaits the Gamecocks in 2020, assuming the campaign is able to be played without a hitch.

The season kicks off against in-state rival Coastal Carolina on Sept. 5. The Gamecocks will host East Carolina the following week, giving them two non-conference home games to open the season for the first time since 2003. The season-opening three-game homestand concludes on Sept. 19 when Carolina hosts Missouri in the SEC lid-lifter. The Mizzou contest also begins a stretch of eight-consecutive SEC contests for the Gamecocks.

The Gamecocks head out on the road for the first time in 2020 with a pair of SEC contests at Kentucky on Sept. 26 and at Florida on Oct. 3. Carolina returns home on Oct. 10 to host Tennessee then, after the lone off week of the season, plays host to Texas A&M, before wrapping up the month of October at Vanderbilt on Halloween.

No one in the country will have a tougher November slate than South Carolina, as the Gamecocks will face three teams that finished in the top four in the final 2019 national polls. First up is a Nov. 7 date with the Georgia Bulldogs. The Dawgs will be looking for revenge after Carolina upset the third-ranked team in the country in Athens a year ago. The Gamecocks will travel to Baton Rouge and Death Valley to face the defending national champion LSU Tigers on Nov. 14. The FCS Wofford Terriers will provide the competition in the home finale on Nov. 21, while the 2020 regular season comes to a close in Clemson's Memorial Stadium on Nov. 28 when the Gamecocks and Tigers renew their series for the 118th time.

Uncertainty about the college football season will continue to exist, maybe throughout 2020, but rest assured, Coach Muschamp will have the Gamecocks ready to react to whatever comes their way.

When nothing is certain, anything is possible.

Gamecock Offense

Coordinator Mike Bobo has been brought in to reinvigorate an offense that struggled to put points on the board a season ago. Six starters return, including four offensive linemen - Sadarius Hutcherson, Jordan Rhodes, Jovaughn Gwyn and Dylan Wonnum - which should be the strength of the unit. Sophomore quarterback Ryan Hilinski returns as the front-runner to direct the offense after gaining valuable experience a year ago. Wide receiver Shi Smith and tight end Nick Muse are capable receiving options, but there are plenty of open slots for someone to step up as Carolina looks to replace its all-time leading receiver in Bryan Edwards. Competition is wide open in the running backs room as well.

QUARTERBACK

Mike Bobo has been blessed with as deep of a quarterbacks room as Carolina has had in recent memory. Sophomore Ryan Hilinski is the incumbent after having been pressed into a starting role in just the second game of his true freshman campaign. He experienced the ups-and-downs common for a true freshman playing in the SEC, but should be better equipped to handle the role in his second season. He threw 11 touchdown passes to just five interceptions, while putting the ball in the air 406 times in 11 starts. He will be pushed by graduate transfer Collin Hill. Hill, who is actually the most experienced signal-caller on the team with 18 games played, was a starter for Coach Bobo at Colorado State, but is coming off his third ACL injury. Junior Jay Urlich, who has been moved back-and-forth between quarterback and receiver, brings a different dimension to the position, most notably excellent speed. Newcomer Luke Doty could be a player to keep an eye on as the season progresses. He possesses the skill set and all the intangibles necessary to be successful. Walk-on Connor Jordan is in his second season with the squad.

RUNNING BACK

New running backs coach Des Kitchings has a clean slate to work with in his first season with the Gamecocks. Gone are seniors Rico Dowdle, Tavien Feaster, Mon Denson and A.J. Turner, who did the bulk of the work over the past several seasons. Competition for carries will be fierce. Sophomores Deshaun Fenwick and Kevin Harris have both flashed SEC ability and have 100-yard rushing games under their belts, but they will be challenged by highly-acclaimed true freshman MarShawn Lloyd, who turned heads during the abbreviated spring drills. Junior college transfer ZaQuandre White is the wild card. Highly-touted coming out of high school, White spent two seasons at Florida State before going the JUCO route last season. Rashad Amos doesn't come in with the same fanfare as some of the others, but could prove to be more than capable. Graduate transfer Adam Prentice is penciled into a fullback position, one that hasn't been used much at South Carolina in recent years, but may remind Gamecock fans of Patrick DiMarco. Senior walk-on Slade Carroll adds depth at running back as does freshman Bruce Staley, while walk-ons Chuck Strickland and Bradley Dunn are listed as fullbacks.

WIDE RECEIVER

New wide receivers coach Joe Cox will be challenged to re-stock a position that has sent Deebo Samuel and Bryan Edwards, the school's all-time leading receiver, to the NFL in the last two seasons. Senior Shi Smith figures to be the next man up in a long line of outstanding receivers. Where his help comes from will be interesting to watch. Three juniors - OrTre Smith, Chad Terrell and Josh Vann - have all had moments, but need to become more consistent contributors. After spending most of the last two seasons in the quarterbacks' room, Dakereon Joyner is now locked in at receiver. He can be special with the ball in his hands. Sophomore Xavier Legette got on-the-job training at the position as a true freshman and showed the athleticism that could prove to be a difference-maker. The wild card is senior Randrecous Davis. Davis has the physical tools to help, but has been hampered with injuries throughout his career. Redshirt freshman Tyquan Johnson and walk-on Trey Adkins add depth. Eight true freshmen - scholarship players Ger-Cari Caldwell, Rico Powers and Mike Wyman, along with walk-ons Deon Eaddy, Elisha Brooks, Brandon Edwards, Payton Mangrum and Ben Rollins - will get an opportunity to make showcase their skills in fall camp.

TIGHT END

Senior Nick Muse, who is coming off an ACL injury, was a welcome addition to last year's squad, and figures to play a prominent role in the offense in 2020. After Muse, the position is wide open. Will Register and Chandler Farrell, a converted offensive lineman, are the veterans. Traveon Kenion, Keveon Mullins and KeShawn Toney are redshirt freshman who will battle for playing time, as will a pair of true freshmen in Jaheim Bell and Eric Shaw. Mullins is a converted wide receiver who is just learning the position. Bell and Shaw have big upsides and could pose matchup problems for a defense. Walk-ons Patrick Reedy, Dawson Coleman and Jesse Sanders add depth.

OFFENSIVE LINE

It has taken some time, but Eric Wolford has been able to create some depth in his unit, which should be one of the stronger units of the offense in 2020. Wolford feels very good about four tackles in Jazston Turnetine, Dylan Wonnum, Jalen Nichols and Jakai Moore. Turnetine is a JUCO transfer who could begin the season at the important left tackle position. Wonnum was a Freshman All-SEC selection two years ago. Nichols and Moore were both forced into action last season as true freshmen, and more than held their own. The depth at tackle has allowed Coach Wolford to move fifth-year senior Sadarius Hutcherson back to his more natural position of guard, where he figures to be one of the starters. Jordan Rhodes and Jovaughn Gwyn are both returning starters at guard, so the competition will be something to watch. The Gamecocks lose their starting center in Donell Stanley, who was a leader on and off the field. His loss will be felt, but between Eric Douglas, Hank Manos, Vincent Murphy and possibly Gwyn, Wolford should be able to find a capable replacement. Wyatt Campbell, Mark Fox and Will Rogers also return up front, while the Carolina coaches are high on newcomers Trai Jones, Vershon Lee and Tyshawn Wannamaker. John Kanaan, Gavin Bennett, James Reedy and Dylan Sebuck are walk-ons who round out the unit.

Gamecock Defense

The defense will have a different look, especially along the defensive line, where the losses of All-American Javon Kinlaw, D.J. Wonnum, and Kobe Smith will be felt. The lone starting returnee up front is Aaron Sterling, who will try to build off a six-sack season. 2018 starter Keir Thomas returns after being sidelined for much of 2019. The leadership of linebacker T.J. Brunson will be missed, but leading tackler Ernest Jones and Sherrod Greene are returning starters at the position. Carolina is blessed with a pair of standouts at cornerback in Jaycee Horn and Israel Mukuamu, who could be as good of tandem as any in the country. R.J. Roderick is a returning starter at safety, while Jammie Robinson was a Freshman All-SEC defensive back.

2019 Statistics

Rushing Defense	158.0 (12/66)
Passing Defense	235.3 (12/80)
Pass Eff. Defense	130.70 (10/59)
Opp. 3rd Down Pct.	383 (8/56)
Total Defense	393.3 (10/66)

DEFENSIVE LINE

The defensive line will have to be rebuilt somewhat, following the graduation of first-round NFL Draft pick Javon Kinlaw and his running mate at tackle, Kobe Smith, who proved to be a "glue guy" on the defense. But the Gamecocks have recruited well at the position and new defensive line coach Tracy Rocker has the savvy and experience as both a standout SEC player and coach to bring out the best of the talented group. Three seniors will be counted on to lead the way. Defensive end Aaron Sterling is coming off a six-sack season. Tackle Jabari Ellis saw more playing time as the 2019 season progressed and was playing his best football when the season ended. And Keir Thomas, who missed most of the '19 campaign with an injury, is a swing player who could be used several ways. A pair of juniors in Kingley (J.J.) Enagbare and Rick Sandidge will have the opportunity to see their roles expand. Enagbare has shown the ability to get to the quarterback. Highly-recruited Zach Pickens was a Freshman All-SEC performer last year and figures to play a more significant role this year with a year of experience under his belt. Joseph Anderson was redshirted in his first season with the Garnet & Black and could push for playing time. Junior college transfer Devontae Davis and sophomore Tyreek Johnson missed the entire 2019 season with injuries while junior M.J. Webb returns to the defensive side of the ball after spending a year on offense. The Carolina coaching staff is excited about the addition of three incoming freshman in Tonka Hemingway, Alex Huntley and Makius Scott.

BUCK/SAM

Assistant coach Mike Peterson will have the task of finding a replacement for standout D.J. Wonnum, a fourth-round NFL draft pick, at the Buck position, a hybrid defensive end/outside linebacker spot in the Gamecock defense. Junior Brad Johnson will get the first shot. Johnson saw action in four games last season and took a redshirt year in the process. He is by far the most experienced player in the group. Redshirt freshman Rodricus Fitten won the Scout Team award last season and could figure into the battle as well. However, most eyes will be focused on newcomer Jordan Burch, the highest-rated recruit to come to Carolina since Jadeveon Clowney was rated the nation's top player out of high school. An explosive athlete at 6-5 and 265 pounds, Burch is a someone who could adapt and make the transition to the college game quickly. Gilber Edmond, a late commitment to the 2020 class, will also work at the position.

LINEBACKERS

Rod Wilson, a former Gamecock team captain who earned a Super Bowl ring with the Kansas City Chiefs last year, takes over as the linebackers coach, where junior Ernest Jones is the unquestioned leader of the unit. Jones, who makes all the calls from the MIKE position, led the team with 97 tackles last season, 20 more than anyone else on the squad. He is also the vocal leader of the defense and has taken ownership of the defense following the departure of three-year starter T.J. Brunson. Seniors Sherrod Greene and Damani Staley have played a lot of football at Carolina and are candidates to earn a starting position as well, at either the WILL or SAM positions. Greene is a two-year starter with 130 career stops while Staley has been a rotation player since his arrival on campus. The batch of backup linebackers includes sophomores Rosendo Louis Jr., who has slimmed down after having a supporting role in the past two seasons, and Jahmar Brown, who flashed on the weakside last season. Former walk-on Spencer Eason-Riddle, a senior who is coming off an ACL injury, has been more of a factor on special teams. Joining the squad this year is Mohamed Kaba and walk-on Darryle Ware. Kaba is coming off an injury that kept him out of spring drills, while Edmond was a late flip in the recruiting process. Walk-ons Sean McGonigal and Noah Vincent round out the unit.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

The Carolina coaches feel they have one of the best tandem of cornerbacks in the country in juniors Jaycee Horn and Israel Mukuamu. Both are all-league candidates and both have already been mentioned as possible future high NFL draft picks. Horn, an SEC All-Freshman selection in 2018, has 17 pass breakups in his career despite opponents not throwing in his direction very often. Mukuamu was a second-team All-SEC selection a year ago and pushed himself into the national limelight after a three-interception performance in the double-overtime win at Georgia, earning National Player of the Week accolades in the process. The Gamecocks also return two other secondary starters in safety R.J. Roderick and nickel Jammie Robinson. Roderick, a junior, has made 16 career starts, while Robinson, a Freshman All-SEC performer a season ago, could stay at nickel or slide into a starting role at safety. Junior Jaylin Dickerson is the wild card. After making a big impression upon his arrival in Columbia, his career has been derailed by injury. If Dickerson is able to stay healthy, he could be a huge boost to the defense. John Dixon, who started the season opener last year, and Cam Smith are a pair of young corners who got their feet wet a year ago. If they continue to come on, defensive backs coach Travaris Robinson would have the option to move Mukuamu inside. Redshirt freshman Shilo Sanders is another young candidate who could work his way into time at safety. Sophomore Darius Rush continues to learn the cornerback position after beginning his career at wide receiver. Walk-on Jaylan Foster provides depth. A quartet of freshmen - O'Donnell Fortune, Dominick Hill and Joey Hunter, along with walk-ons Fabian Goodman, Landon Grier and McKay Melnick - will have opportunities to showcase their skills during fall camp.

Gamecock Special Teams

Kyle Krantz takes over as the Gamecocks' special teams coordinator. Many of the key positions are wide open entering the fall. One that is not is at placekicker, which is in the capable hands (and foot) of Parker White. White has improved each season and is almost automatic from inside 40 yards. Krantz has a huge hole to fill at punter following the graduation of school record-holder Joseph Charlton. Other positions that will be contested in fall camp come at long snapper, holder, kickoff specialist and punt returner, where the Gamecocks graduated Max Oliveira, Charlton, Will Tommie and Bryan Edwards, respectively. Shi Smith and Xavier Legette both have experience at kickoff return and figure to get the first shot there.

2019 Statistics

Kickoff Returns	20.2 (8/74)
Kick Return Defense.....	24.0 (14/115)
Punt Returns.....	13.3 (3/16)
Punt Return Defense	13.8 (12/124)
Net Punting.....	42.0 (3/10)

PLACEKICKER

The strength of the Gamecock special teams begins with senior placekicker Parker White. White, a three-year starter, has improved his field goal accuracy in every season and has been cool under pressure. Almost automatic (32-of-35) from inside 40 yards, White has also been able to extend his distance, hitting from a career-long 50 yards last season. He owns five fourth-quarter or overtime game-winning field goals in his career, providing the deciding points in wins over Louisiana Tech (2017), Tennessee (2017), Missouri (2018), Tennessee (2018) and Georgia (2019). Entering his final campaign, White ranks among the school's all-time leaders in field goals made (4th-45), field goals attempted (4th-63), PATs made (5th-96), PATs attempted (5th-97), PAT percentage (5th-990) and points scored (5th-231). The number two slot behind White will be determined in the fall with sophomore Cole Hanna and redshirt freshmen Alex Herrera in the mix. Neither has ever attempted a kick in a collegiate game. True freshman Mitch Jeter will also compete for that backup role.

PUNTER

Maybe the biggest hole to fill from last year's squad is finding a replacement for the school's all-time leading punter in Joseph Charlton. Charlton posted the top two single-season punting averages in school history and owns the top career average as well. A pair of walk-on punters competed for the position in the spring, including senior Christian Kinsley, who punted for two seasons at Kennesaw State University before transferring to Carolina. Redshirt freshmen Alex Herrera was also in the mix. The position will not be settled until fall camp when true freshman Kai Kroger joins the competition.

KICKOFF SPECIALIST

Similar to the punting situation, special teams coordinator Kyle Krantz will be looking to replace his kickoff specialist following the graduation of Will Tommie, who handled those chores for the past two seasons. Some early candidates to fill those shoes are Parker White, Alex Herrera and Christian Kinsey, but as is the case at punter, the position will not be decided until fall camp when true freshman Mitch Jeter joins the competition.

LONG SNAPPER

Coach Krantz will be looking to replace another graduating senior at the long snapper position after graduate transfer Matt Oliveira stepped into the role a year ago. The leader in the clubhouse coming out of spring is Matthew Bailey, a redshirt freshman from Deland, Fla. Bailey saw action in the Charleston Southern game last season. Incoming freshman Hunter Rogers provides the competition.

HOLDER

The important, but often overlooked position of holder is also up for grabs this fall. Punter Joseph Charlton handled the position a year ago, but has graduated, leaving the spot wide open. Several candidates emerged in the spring, with punter Christian Kinsley, wide receiver Trey Adkins and quarterback Luke Doty all taking turns. As is the case with several of the special teams duties, this job won't be decided until the fall.

KICK RETURNER

One of the few special teams specialists where the Gamecocks have returning experience is at kick returner. Shi Smith, Xavier Legette and Jammie Robinson all had opportunities to return kicks last season and are candidates to serve in that role again in 2020. Smith has the most experience with 12 returns for a 21.9-yard average a year ago, and 18 career returns for a 22.3-yard average, with a long of 62 yards. Legette was impressive in limited duty a year ago with four returns for a 28.2-yard average with a long of 50 yards.

PUNT RETURNER

Another special teams area that will see a different Gamecock fill the role is that of punt returner. Sure-handed Bryan Edwards did a capable job in the role over the past two seasons, but has graduated. The most likely candidates to ascend to that role in 2020 are defensive backs Jaycee Horn and Jammie Robinson, and possibly wide receiver Josh Vann, who returned two punts for 24 yards last season. Again, the permanent replacement will not be decided until the fall.

QUICKLY: 2020 will mark the 127th season of intercollegiate football at the University of South Carolina, dating back to 1892. It is the 114th-consecutive year in which South Carolina has competed on the gridiron. The University did not field a team in either 1893 or 1906. Carolina owns an all-time record of 612-587-44, a .510 winning percentage.

IT JUST MEANS MORE: The 2020 season will mark South Carolina's 29th year in the Southeastern Conference. South Carolina and Arkansas joined the league prior to the 1992 campaign. The Gamecocks earned the SEC Eastern Division title in the 2010 season. The Gamecocks are 97-126-1 (.435) all-time in SEC regular-season play, but are 42-38 (.525) in conference action since the start of the 2010 season.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY: The 2020 season will mark the 10th anniversary of the 2010 squad that captured the SEC Eastern Division title and went on to appear in the SEC Championship game in Atlanta against eventual national champion Auburn. It's the Gamecocks' only division title since joining the Southeastern Conference.

2019 IN REVIEW: South Carolina concluded its 126th season of intercollegiate football in 2019 with a record of 4-8, including a 3-5 mark in the SEC. The highlight of the season was a 20-17 double-overtime win at Georgia, a team that finished fourth in the final Associated Press poll. Four of the Gamecocks' eight losses were to teams that finished the season in the top-20 in the A.P.'s final poll, including No. 2 Clemson, No. 6 Florida, No. 8 Alabama and No. 19 Appalachian State.

NO EXCUSES, BUT THAT WAS TOUGH: The Gamecocks faced the nation's toughest schedule during the 2019 season. Gamecock opponents averaged 8.9 wins, the high-water mark for any school in 2019, and all nine of their opponents that appeared in bowl games, won a bowl game. South Carolina's Division I opponents combined for a 101-44 record, a .697 winning percentage. Using the NCAA formula, the Gamecocks (.99-46, .683) faced the toughest schedule in the country, just ahead of Auburn (107-50, .682).

PLAYING THE BEST: For the second-straight year, South Carolina will face the two teams that competed in the previous year's national championship game. The Gamecocks draw road trips to LSU and Clemson this season. A year ago, Carolina had home games against Clemson and Alabama.

AND BEATING THE BEST: The Gamecocks' double-overtime win at Georgia matched the second-best win in school history, based on the AP rankings, topped only by the 2010 win over No. 1 Alabama. Six of Carolina's top eight wins have come since 2009:

No.	Date	Opponent	AP Rank	Score
1.	10/09/10	vs Alabama	1	35-21
2.	10/24/81	at North Carolina	3	31-13
	10/12/19	at Georgia	3	20-17
4.	09/24/09	vs Ole Miss	4	16-10
5.	10/06/12	vs Georgia	5	35-7

7.	09/24/88	vs Georgia	6	23-10
	09/13/14	vs Georgia	6	38-35
9.	10/04/07	vs Kentucky	8	38-23
	11/21/87	vs Clemson	8	20-7
	11/14/53	at West Virginia	8	20-14

HE'S THE CHAMP: Will Muschamp has posted a 26-25 record in his first four seasons as the Gamecocks' head coach. His .510 winning percentage is exactly the same as that of the University's through its first 126 years of intercollegiate football. The 26 wins ranks in a tie for ninth on the school's all-time list with Sol Metzger, while his 51 games coached ranks 10th in school history. With a full 12-game schedule, he would pass Sparky Woods (55 games) and Brad Scott (56), moving into eighth-place on the school's all-time games coached list. He needs three wins to move past Warren Giese (28 wins) into eighth place and eight wins to leapfrog Lou Holtz into seventh on the all-time wins list. Overall, Coach Muschamp has been a head coach for eight seasons, logging a 54-46 record, a .540 winning percentage.

In addition to the six games against SEC Eastern Division rivals and the annual matchup with Western Division foe Texas A&M, the Gamecocks will travel to LSU to complete the conference slate. Along with the annual Palmetto state showdown with Clemson, Carolina's non-conference slate consists of three home games, including matchups with in-state rivals Coastal Carolina and Wofford, and a home tilt with East Carolina.
