MATCH PREVIEW

LAST TIME OUT - FLORIDA

Then-No. 11 South Carolina women's soccer (5-1-0, 5-1-0 SEC) dominated Florida (1-3-1, 1-3-1 SEC) 4-2 on Oct. 25 at Stone Stadium to give head coach Shelley Smith her 300th career win, 259 coming as the head coach of South Carolina.

"[Wins] are not something that I've ever kept track of, and wasn't really thinking about coming into today's match," Smith said. "Obviously it is an amazing accomplishment, but I don't go into a game or a season ever thinking about things like that. It is one game at a time and that is our mentality and that is what our team's mentality is. When I get the chance to step back a little bit, it will be nice to realize the accomplishment. I'm sure it will sink in eventually."

The win is the fifth straight for the Gamecocks and keeps Carolina on the top of the SEC standings with 15 total points. The win made Shelley Smith the 27th head coach at the NCAA Division I level to win 300 matches in a career.

"[Winning] was obviously something we were trying to do for Shelley," junior defender Sutton Jones said. "We love her, and she loves us. She's done so well with this program and going into today it was something we really wanted to do for her. It was just super special. She is so humble and even told us after the match that she doesn't focus on those kinds of things."

'Matter' is the Minimum Patch

The Gamecocks chose to wear these patches because they want to use their platform as student-athletes to take a stand against systemic racism and social injustice. The team does not tolerate any form of racism and injustice and wants to do its part to make a change. Although these patches are small, they stand for a movement that is bigger than any game.

JONES NAMED SEC DEFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE WEEK

South Carolina women's soccer junior Sutton Jones was honored as the SEC Defensive Player of the Week, the first of the junior's career, the conference office announced on Oct. 26. The honor is the fourth straight week the Gamecocks have earned a weekly honor from the SEC.

"Sutton had another great game playing almost every minute in the back for us," South Carolina head coach Shelley Smith said. "She was a huge difference on the offensive end as well with her two goals. It is a well-deserved honor this week being recognized by truly making an impact on both ends of the field."

Jones netted a pair of goals for the No. 11 Gamecocks against rival Florida, helping Carolina earn its fifth-straight SEC win. The Fort Mill, S.C., native, scored the first and last goal of the Gamecocks 4-2 dominant win over Florida at Stone Stadium. The brace is the first multi-goal performance by a Carolina defender since Taylor Leach in 2014. Jones doubled her career goal total with her two goals against Florida, helping the Gamecocks defeat the Gators for the fifth-straight time at Stone Stadium dating back to 2012.

SCOUTING MISSISSIPPI STATE

In just his second season at the helm of the Mississippi State program James Armstrong has led the Bulldogs into a formidable SEC program. The Bulldogs are coming off their first NCAA Tournament appearance in 2019 and followed that up with an undefeated 2-0-2 start before falling to Texas A&M on the road last week. The Bulldogs have matched up with two ranked opponents this season, tying with then-No. 15 Alabama and falling to then-No. 9 Texas A&M 3-0. Onyi Echegini and Monigo Kamley are both players who have scored multiple times this season for Mississippi State. Echegini has arguably been the most dangerous, averaging three shots per match, the fourth most in the SEC this season. In goal it has been freshman Maddy Anderson for most of the season, playing all but 21 minutes between the pipes. Anderson has been tough in goal, making 29 saves this season, the fifth-most in the SEC this season. The Bulldogs have had five different starting lineups through their first five matches, but stuck with their latest lineup in their past two matches.

JONES NAMED NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE WEEK

South Carolina women's soccer junior defender Sutton Jones was named the United Soccer Coaches National Player of the Week for her performance in the Gamecocks' 4-2 win against Florida.

This is the second-straight week the Gamecocks have earned the United Soccer Coaches Player of the Week and join TCU as the only teams to have multiple National Players of the Week this season. Jones is only the second defender to earn the National Player of the Week honor this season, joining TCU's Brandi Peterson.

Jones was also honored by College Soccer News and TopDrawerSoccer on their national Teams of the Week.

LEAVING IT BETTER THAN THEY FOUND IT

On Friday night the Gamecocks will honor nine current Gamecocks and two former Gamecocks that were forced to medically retire. The 2020 senior class has been a part of two SEC Championships (2017, 2019) and has won 91 percent of its matches at Stone Stadium, the second-best mark in program history (only behind the 2019 senior class at 92.2 percent). They have won 57 matches and 27 SEC matches, easily inside the top five among South Carolina senior classes. The class has reached the NCAA Tournament in every season and has won eight NCAA Tournament matches, which includes a trip to the program's first College Cup in 2017.

THE OFFENSIVE GAMECOCKS

As a team the Gamecocks are either the outright SEC leaders or tied in total goals (13), total points (37), assists per match (1.83) and total assists (11) this season. The Gamecocks are ranked second in the SEC in points per match (6.17) and scoring offense (2.17).

The Gamecocks points per match mark of 6.17 is just behind the program record of 6.33 that the team set in 2016 when the team scoring a total of 152 points in 24 matches. Individually, Catherine Barry, Samantha Chang and Rylee Forster are all inside the SEC top 10 in regards to total points and points per match.

RIGHTFULLY RANKED

For the third consecutive week the Gamecocks improved their ranking in the United Soccer Coaches top 15 poll. Carolina moved up from No. 11 to No. 9 after taking down Florida. Despite the Gamecocks being on top of the SEC regular season standings through six of the eight 2020 regular season matches Carolina still sits behind No. 7 Arkansas and No. 8 Texas A&M in the rankings. For the 2020 season the United Soccer Coaches poll has been reduced to just 15 teams, with no additional 'teams receiving votes'.

'MATTER' IS THE MINIMUM PATCH

As of July 30, 2020, the NCAA Playing Rules Oversight Panel approved rules to allow student-athletes in all sports to wear patches on their uniforms for commemorative and memorial purposes, as well as to support social justice issues. Student-athletes of the South Carolina women's soccer program chose to wear patches that read "Matter is the Minimum" on their right sleeve.

The Gamecocks chose to wear these patches because they want to use their platform as student-athletes to take a stand against systemic racism and social injustice. The team does not tolerate any form of racism and injustice and wants to do its part to make a change. Although these patches are small, they stand for a movement that is bigger than any game.

UP NEXT

Carolina will have a full week to recover for their match against Tennessee on Fri., Nov. 6. The Gamecocks will travel to Knoxville for the matchup scheduled for a 6 p.m. kick on SEC Network +. Last season the Gamecocks and Volunteers tied at Stone Stadium, 1-1.

FEATURED GAMECOCKS

ZULLO SISTERS UNITE IN COLUMBIA

Luciana and Corinna Zullo didn't initially plan to compete on the same collegiate soccer team, but sometimes things just work out. The senior and freshman sisters on South Carolina's women's soccer team may be competing at the same position, but don't call it a sibling rivalry.

"It's really fun being on the same team again," said freshman Corinna Zullo. "It was fun being on the same team in high school. We play the same position, so it's good to look up to her, see how she's doing and try to improve myself."

"We have not raced in a while, which is something I think she wants to do," said senior Luciana Zullo. "We've always been very competitive, but we've always been very supportive of each other. We played a year together of high school soccer in New Jersey, and that was so much fun being on the field at the same time. Here, it might be a little bit different. It's interesting competing with your sister for playing time."

The year-long family reunion fits in well with the family atmosphere within the program, but each was recruited to play for the Gamecocks based on her own individual merits.

"Recruiting wise, I might have been in her ear a little bit," Luciana said. "I've had such a great experience here, and I knew that she would be able to thrive and grow here, not only as a player, but as a person. When she was being recruited, (associate head coach) Jamie (Smith) didn't know that she was my sister. He was actually at her game watching another player, and he looked at the roster and was like, 'you're kidding me?' It's good to know that she was looked at as her own person and not just as my little sister when she was being recruited."

SMITHS ENTERING 20TH YEAR AT SC

Now in their 20th year leading the South Carolina women's soccer program, head coach Shelley Smith and husband and associate head coach Jamie Smith have seen it all. After building a championship program, the Smiths are ready to see a lot more.

"We're enjoying it, and we're still young enough to do this and to want to do this," Shelley Smith said. "We have good relationships with players, and we enjoy the grind and the work that we do. We'll keep going as long as they'll have us."

The package turned out to be gift that keeps on giving. The program is now a perennial SEC championship contender and has been to the NCAA Tournament in 12 of the last 13 years, including three NCAA quarterfinals and the 2017 national semifinals at the College Cup. The Smiths have led the Gamecocks to three SEC Regular SEC Championships and a pair of SEC Tournament titles as well. It wasn't easy to bring the program up to that level.

"It was at the bottom of the SEC when we took over," Shelley Smith said. "They were 4-16 (1-8 in the SEC) the year before. I came from Rhode Island, and I thought the team here should be a lot stronger than what I had there, and it really wasn't the jump I was hoping for. There was some very good talent, but overall, it wasn't a collective group yet. They had to learn how to get along. They had to learn how to work for each other and push each other because there were definitely some talented kids, they just needed to come together as a team."

FEATURED GAMECOCKS

HINZ FAMILY TRADITION

In competing to be the one to fill the void left by the graduation of an All-American goalkeeper, Heather Hinz has big shoes to fill. The South Carolina sophomore is no stranger in trying to follow in the footsteps of an accomplished net-minder, as her older sister, Megan, played for four years at Michigan (2014-2017) and is now playing professionally for the NWSL's Sky Blue FC.

"When I was younger, I looked up to all of my sisters in different aspects," said Heather Hinz, who is the youngest of four sisters. "With sports, Megan seemed to be very serious about it, and I always admired how every time she puts her mind to something, she goes 100 percent."

"Seeing her go through the recruiting process, going through college, and even her pro experience has helped me a ton. It has brought us a lot closer because we can talk about a lot of these things that other people wouldn't understand. The fact that I have that kind of mentor is really lucky."

"Heather and I have always been super close," said Morgan Hinz, who is 24. "Our relationship has also changed a lot. I remember when Heather was a baby. I remember when she was first training in goal, I would coach her. I went off to college and then played overseas, and I come back, and she has figured out who she is. I always looked at her as my baby sister, but now we're really good friends. I talk to her every single day. Now we can lean on each other, like peers."

Heather Hinz is battling with freshman Taylor Fox for the starting job as South Carolina's goalkeeper after four-year-starter Mikayla Krzczowski graduated last year. Fox started the first two games for the Gamecocks this year, but Hinz earned her first career start last Sunday against Kentucky and posted a clean sheet in South Carolina's 1-0 victory.

DEFENSIVE TRADITION

As the saying goes, defense wins championships. South Carolina women's soccer is known for playing great defense, and senior captains Anna Patten and Sarah Eskew are vying to add their names to the long list of outstanding defenders for Carolina.

"I think because we have been around and have been a part of that strong defensive unit, we know what to expect," said Patten. "With new players having to step up into their roles, it's important for us to be teachers and leaders to help them and help us be just as strong defensively this year. The coaches emphasize the minute details."

"Since we have been a part of backlines that have been really strong, we have an idea of what a good back line looks like and what we should be doing," said Eskew. "It gives us some knowledge to help teach the freshmen or the girls who are now starting or getting more minutes."

"(Associate Head Coach) Jamie (Smith) really puts an emphasis on defense. Defense is really the foundation of our team. It's not just the backline. It's the whole team."

The Gamecocks won the SEC Tournament last year for the second time in program history after winning back-to-back regular season titles in 2016 and 2017. Defense has been a big part of that as a South Carolina player has earned SEC Defensive Player of the Year honors six times in the last 12 years, including three years in a row. Kaleigh Kurtz took the honors in 2017 and Grace Fisk won it in each of the last two years.
