MATCH PREVIEW

LAST TIME OUT - ELON

South Carolina women's soccer (10-3-0, 6-2-0 SEC) powered past Elon on the road on March 25, 3-0 at Rudd Field. The trio of Catherine Barry, Jylissa Harris and Brianna Behm all scored in the first half to secure the first road victory of the spring.

"It was a great team effort tonight and they earned a hard-fought win against a tough Elon team," South Carolina head coach Shelley Smith said. "We limited our opponent to just one shot and that comes from a great defensive effort by the whole group. We also capitalized on some early opportunities with some strong offensive possessions that helped us control the game from the start. Overall, it was a strong performance, and we look forward to being back at home for our next match against Clemson."

Carolina scored early for the second-straight match when Barry notched home her goal in the third minute of the match. Harris' goal about 20 minutes later separated Carolina from Elon and Behm's late first-half goal cemented the Gamecocks' first road win of the 2021 spring season. The backline of Harris, Sutton Jones, Hallie Meadows and Camryn Dixon allowed just one shot the entire match, the lowest amount this season, while Taylor Fox started in goal and sophomore Heather Hinz played the final 45 minutes.

SCOUTING CLEMSON

Clemson (11-4-0, 5-3-0 ACC) enters Saturday contest on a five-match winning streak, six if the Tigers' exhibition match with Furman on Feb. 20 is included. The Tigers have allowed at least one goal in three of their five matches this spring and hold a 0.729 goals against average this season, the fourth-best among ACC teams this season. Clemson's offense is paced by Caroline Conti, who as a sophomore midfielder has scored seven goals along with three assists on just 15 shots. Maliah Morris, a sophomore forward, is second on the team in points (14) with five goals and four assists with a team-leading 37 shots this season. Morris is the only Clemson student-athlete to have a goal in their career against South Carolina, scoring the game-winning in the 1-0 Clemson win in 2019. On the defensive end it has been both Hensley Hancuff and Halle Mackiewicz this spring with the two splitting time in goal for Clemson. Mackiewicz has allowed four goals in four appearances as a freshman while Hancuff has allowed seven goals in 10 matches this season, making 42 saves and holding a team-leading goals against average of 0.71.

HARRIS EARNS FIRST DEFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE WEEK HONOR

South Carolina women's soccer junior midfielder turned defender Jyllissa Harris was tabbed as the SEC Defensive Player of the Week for the first time in her career after her performance against Elon, the conference office announced Monday.

The Hazlet, N.J., native extended her scoring streak to three matches on March 25 in the shutout victory over Elon on the road. Harris, who's primary position is a defensive midfielder, has moved to the center back position this spring, starting in all three matches so far in 2021 and helping the Gamecocks to three-straight clean sheets. Thursday's clear sheet against Elon was arguably the most impressive this spring with Carolina's back line allowing just one shot all match on the road. Harris added an insurance goal in the first half for the Gamecocks, helping the team earn a 3-0 win for the third-straight time. South Carolina has now earned a total of seven weekly SEC honors this season and has won each of the three weekly honors at least twice including three Defensive Player of the Week honors won by three different Gamecocks (Sutton Jones, Heather Hinz).

THE SPRING GAMECOCKS

On top of Anna Patten leaving the Gamecocks for the professional ranks the Gamecocks will look different for multiple other reasons. Defenders Sarah Eskew and Caitlyn Leffler both will not be available in the spring due to injury while four additional Gamecocks have moved on from collegiate soccer to pursue internships, graduate or other professional development opportunities. In total Carolina began the spring season with 20 healthy student-athletes.

FRESHMAN PHENOMS

The Gamecocks have had an influx of young talent this season with half of Carolina's 28 goals this season coming from true freshmen. Catherine Barry leads the way with six this season while Corinna Zullo, Rylee Forster and Ranya Senhaji all scoring multiple goals this season. Midfielder Brianna Behm added her name to the freshman scoring list against Elon, increasing the percentage of points from freshman up to 44.2 percent this season, the second highest percentage in the SEC behind just Texas A&M. Catherine Barry also tied the program's freshman game-winning goals record, scoring her fourth against Elon to tie herself with Jennie Ondo (1996).

2021 NCAA TOURNAMENT TO BE PLAYED ENTIRELY IN N.C.

On March 25 the Division I Competition Oversight Committee approved a proposal that would consolidate the Division I Women's Soccer Championships by having all 48 women's teams compete in Cary, North Carolina, and the surrounding areas.

The move is effective for this year's women's soccer championships, which were postponed last fall due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Selections for the championships will be April 19, and the tournament will conclude with the NCAA College Cup at WakeMed Soccer Park in Cary. The women's national semifinals will be May 13, with the national champion being crowned May 17.

STILL WINNING, STILL RANKED

The latest United Soccer Coaches top-25 rankings moved the Gamecocks up to No. 11 in the country after its third-straight 3-0 result, the latest being against Elon on March 25. South Carolina has been ranked in the last 12 national polls that have now returned to the top 25 format after only have the top 15 during the fall portion of the season. Carolina has been in the last 56 United Soccer Coaches Polls that have used the top 25 format.

Three other SEC teams are inside the top 25 with Arkansas sitting at No. 9 followed by Vanderbilt at No. 14 and then Texas A&M at No. 23.

MILAZZO MAKES NWSL ROSTER, SIGNS WITH CHICAGO

The University of South Carolina has added a 12th name to the current professional ranks when former defender Tatum Milazzo was named to the Chicago Red Stars roster, announced by the club on April 5.

Milazzo making the team makes a total of four Gamecocks in the NWSL ranks in 2021. Milazzo joins Savannah McCaskill (Louisville), Taylor Leach (Kansas City) and Kaleigh Kurtz (North Carolina) as former Gamecocks in the league. Milazzo last played with Carolina in 2019 where she left as a three-time SEC Champion, helping Carolina win titles in 2016, 2017 and in 2019. However, Milazzo ended her career in South Carolina with a knee injury on senior night against Ole Miss. Milazzo was forced to miss the remainder of the season, but continued her soccer career post college that has ended up in a professional roster spot with her hometown team.

SAM CHANG CALLED UP FOR INTERNATIONAL DUTY

After making her international debut in Feb., redshirt sophomore Samantha Chang was once again called up to Canada's Senior National Team for a pair of international friendlies as the squad continues to prepare for the Olympics. Chang will not be back for the Clemson match. Chang has continued to make waves on the international level, making her Senior National Team debut with Canada at the 2021 She Believes Cup against Argentina. After earning the roster spot in camp, the Mississauga, Ontario, native helped the Canadians win their match over Argentina. Chang entered the match in the second half with the score locked at 0-0 and helped keep Argentina out of goal and eventually Canada found the back of the net in extra time.

UP NEXT

South Carolina's final regular season match will be on the road against No. 2 North Carolina. The match is scheduled for April 17 at 1 p.m. in Chapel Hill, N.C.

'MATTER' IS THE MINIMUM PATCH

The Gamecocks chose to wear these patches because they want to use their platform as student-athletes to take a stand against systemic racism and social injustice. The team does not tolerate any form of racism and injustice and wants to do its part to make a change. Although these patches are small, they stand for a movement that is bigger than any game.

FEATURED GAMECOCKS

ZULLO SISTERS UNITE IN COLUMBIA

Luciana and Corinna Zullo didn't initially plan to compete on the same collegiate soccer team, but sometimes things just work out. The senior and freshman sisters on South Carolina's women's soccer team may be competing at the same position, but don't call it a sibling rivalry.

"It's really fun being on the same team again," said freshman Corinna Zullo. "It was fun being on the same team in high school. We play the same position, so it's good to look up to her, see how she's doing and try to improve myself."

"We have not raced in a while, which is something I think she wants to do," said senior Luciana Zullo. "We've always been very competitive, but we've always been very supportive of each other. We played a year together of high school soccer in New Jersey, and that was so much fun being on the field at the same time. Here, it might be a little bit different. It's interesting competing with your sister for playing time."

The year-long family reunion fits in well with the family atmosphere within the program, but each was recruited to play for the Gamecocks based on her own individual merits.

"Recruiting wise, I might have been in her ear a little bit," Luciana said. "I've had such a great experience here, and I knew that she would be able to thrive and grow here, not only as a player, but as a person. When she was being recruited, (associate head coach) Jamie (Smith) didn't know that she was my sister. He was actually at her game watching another player, and he looked at the roster and was like, 'you're kidding me?' It's good to know that she was looked at as her own person and not just as my little sister when she was being recruited."

SMITHS IN 20TH YEAR AT SOUTH CAROLINA

Now in their 20th year leading the South Carolina women's soccer program, head coach Shelley Smith and husband and associate head coach Jamie Smith have seen it all. After building a championship program, the Smiths are ready to see a lot more.

"We're enjoying it, and we're still young enough to do this and to want to do this," Shelley Smith said. "We have good relationships with players, and we enjoy the grind and the work that we do. We'll keep going as long as they'll have us."

The package turned out to be gift that keeps on giving. The program is now a perennial SEC championship contender and has been to the NCAA Tournament in 12 of the last 13 years, including three NCAA quarterfinals and the 2017 national semifinals at the College Cup. The Smiths have led the Gamecocks to three SEC Regular SEC Championships and a pair of SEC Tournament titles as well. It wasn't easy to bring the program up to that level.

"It was at the bottom of the SEC when we took over," Shelley Smith said. "They were 4-16 (1-8 in the SEC) the year before. I came from Rhode Island, and I thought the team here should be a lot stronger than what I had there, and it really wasn't the jump I was hoping for. There was some very good talent, but overall, it wasn't a collective group yet. They had to learn how to get along. They had to learn how to work for each other and push each other because there were definitely some talented kids, they just needed to come together as a team."

HINZ FAMILY TRADITION

In competing to be the one to fill the void left by the graduation of an All-American goalkeeper, Heather Hinz has big shoes to fill. The South Carolina sophomore is no stranger in trying to follow in the footsteps of an accomplished net-minder, as her older sister, Megan, played for four years at Michigan (2014-2017) and is now playing professionally for the NWSL's Sky Blue FC.

"When I was younger, I looked up to all of my sisters in different aspects," said Heather Hinz, who is the youngest of four sisters. "With sports, Megan seemed to be very serious about it, and I always admired how every time she puts her mind to something, she goes 100 percent."

"Seeing her go through the recruiting process, going through college, and even her pro experience has helped me a ton. It has brought us a lot closer because we can talk about a lot of these things that other people wouldn't understand. The fact that I have that kind of mentor is really lucky."

"Heather and I have always been super close," said Morgan Hinz, who is 24. "Our relationship has also changed a lot. I remember when she was first training in goal, I would coach her. I went off to college and then played overseas, and I come back, and she has figured out who she is. I always looked at her as my baby sister, but now we're really good friends. I talk to her every single day. Now we can lean on each other, like peers."

Heather Hinz is battling with freshman Taylor Fox for the starting job as South Carolina's goalkeeper after four-year-starter Mikayla Krzczowski graduated last year. Fox started the first two games for the Gamecocks this year, but Hinz earned her first career start last Sunday against Kentucky and posted a clean sheet in South Carolina's 1-0 victory.

CHANG FULFILLS DREAM WITH CANADA

South Carolina midfielder Samantha Chang is living the dream, but the ability to do that has come through hard work, while overcoming some adversity along the way. The redshirt sophomore midfielder from Mississauga, Ontario, was called up to the Canadian National Team for the SheBelieves Cup in Orlando, Fla., last month and earned her first international cap, playing alongside some of her childhood heroes. After overcoming a torn ACL at the outset of her collegiate career, she serves as an inspiration to other young players.

"It really meant everything to me," Chang said of representing her country. "I've been dreaming about playing for the national team ever since I was a little kid. To get that call that I was coming to camp was pretty unexpected. I was super excited to get in there and train with some of my heroes growing up."

Chang previously played in the Canadian youth programs before she came to South Carolina. She represented Canada at the U20 level and participated in the U17 FIFA World Cup in Jordan in 2016 and won medals at the 2016 Concacaf U-17 championship and the 2014 Concacaf U-15 Championship. Having the opportunity to come to camp with the senior national team meant she would be along side some of the players she looked up to.

"Inspiring the next generation is something that I'm really passionate about. A huge thing for me is that I'm half white, half Asian, and my last name is Chang, so growing up, I never had an Asian role model on the women's national team. Asian people can make it at this level!"
