MATCH PREVIEW

LAST TIME OUT - CLEMSON

No. 11 South Carolina women's soccer (10-4-0, 6-2-0 SEC) dropped a tough match against No. 8 Clemson on a rainy night at Stone Stadium on April 10. The Tigers used two second-half goals to come from behind and defeat the Gamecocks.

Corinna Zullo scored the Gamecocks' lone goal in the first half after a through ball from fellow freshman Catherine Barry. Of the 29 goals Carolina has scored this season, 15 have come from the freshman class. Zullo, who has scored four goals this season, scored the goal in the 28th minute.

Both of Clemson's goals came from Megan Bornkamp, a freshman midfielder, with both coming in the final 20 minutes of action. The first came off a rebound opportunity that came off the crossbar in the 71st minute with the other squeaking past Heather Hinz in the 82nd minute.

CAROLINA IN THE NCAA TOURNAMENT

The Gamecocks hold a 17-12-3 mark all-time at the NCAA Tournament. South Carolina has advanced out of the first round for four straight years. Carolina has reached the College Cup once in program history back in 2017 and have reached the NCAA Quarterfinals three times (2016, 2017, 2019).

QUICK NOTES: SC vs MONTANA

SCOUTING MONTANA

Montana (9-1-0, 7-1-0 Big Sky) was only able to take on six different opponents during the 2020-21 season with five of those teams playing in the Big Sky conference. The Griz captured the Big Sky automatic bid due to COVID issues cutting their conference tournament short and Northern Arizona being forced to forfeit. The Grizzlies scored 21 goals and allowed six in their 10 matches this season. Senior forward Alexa Coyle is the team's leading scorer with five goals on 27 shots with two being gamewinners. Fellow seniors Avery Adams and Taylor Stoeger are the only other players with three or more goals this season with Adams scoring three out of the midfield with Stoeger a forward. Redshirt senior Claire Howard, the Grizzlies starting goalkeeper, enters the tournament with plenty of experience with 71 total starts in her career. She has played every minute for the Griz in goal this season and has a goals against average of 0.58 and has made 26 saves while shutting out six opponents.

THE SPRING GAMECOCKS

On top of Anna Patten leaving the Gamecocks for the professional ranks the Gamecocks will look different for multiple other reasons. Defenders Sarah Eskew and Caitlyn Leffler along with Luciana Zullo and Rylee Forster all not available for the remainder of the spring due to injury while four additional Gamecocks have moved on from collegiate soccer to pursue internships, graduate or other professional development opportunities. In total Carolina enters the 2020-21 NCAA Tournament 19 healthy student-athletes.

FRESHMAN PHENOMS

The Gamecocks have had an influx of young talent this season with over half (15) of Carolina's 29 goals this season coming from true freshmen. Catherine Barry leads the way with six this season while Corinna Zullo, Rylee Forster and Ranya Senhaji all scoring multiple goals this season. Midfielder Brianna Behm added her name to the freshman scoring list against Elon, increasing the percentage of points from freshman up to 46.3 percent this season, the second highest percentage in the SEC behind just Texas A&M (48.1). Carolina and A&M are tied for the most goals in the SEC by freshmen with both programs getting 15 goals from their rookies. Catherine Barry also tied the program's freshman game-winning goals record, scoring her fourth against Elon to tie herself with Jennie Ondo (1996).

GAMECOCKS IN THE NCAA TOURNAMENT RECORD BOOKS

With much of the Gamecocks success in the NCAA Tournament coming in the last few years a number of current NCAA Tournament program records are in range of being broken. Riley Tanner is tied for second in program history with three goals in the NCAA Tournament, all coming in the 2019 tournament, and is tied for fifth in total points with seven. Lauren Chang also is tied for ninth in career points in the NCAA Tournament with four. The 2020-21 senior class has the second-best winning percentage in program history at 72.7 percent (8-3-0), just behind the 2019 senior class who ended with a winning percentage of 73.3 at 11-4-0.

ENTERING THE TOURNAMENT RANKED

The latest United Soccer Coaches top-25 rankings have the Gamecocks at No. 18 in the country after ending the spring season 3-1-0, the latest result coming against Clemson on April 10. South Carolina has been ranked in the last 14 national polls that have now returned to the top 25 format after only have the top 15 during the fall portion of the season. Carolina has been in the last 58 United Soccer Coaches Polls that have used the top 25 format.

Four other SEC teams are inside the latest top 25 with Arkansas sitting at No. 7 followed by Texas A&M at No. 11 and Vanderbilt at No. 16 and capped off by Ole Miss at No. 24.

GAMECOCKS ADD A PAIR TO 2021 SIGNING CLASS

Last week the University of South Carolina announced the signing of a pair of student-athletes that will join the program in the fall of 2021. Carolina welcomes transfer Remi Swartz, a defender from Duke, while Taylor Jacobson will join as a freshman midfielder.

Swartz was a part of the Blue Devils 2017 NCAA College Cup run, the same College Cup that the Gamecocks were a part of on the opposite side of the bracket. She's played in 42 matches in her collegiate career and has started in eight while scoring once and adding one assist. Swartz was named to the ACC Honor Roll in 2018 and aided Duke to eight shutouts in 2019 with three of those against ACC opponents.

An outside back and midfielder for Orlando City's ECNL side, Jacobson was a part of the Olympic Development program, representing her home state for two years. She decided to forego her remaining time at the high school level to train with former United State Men's National Team player, and development coach, Eddie Johnson. Jacobson aided Orlando City qualify for the North American cup twice while the team captain. She was an honor roll member every semester in high school and was a part of the National Honor Society. Jacobson also plans to major if sports management.

SAM CHANG RETURNING AFTER INTERNATIONAL DUTY

After making her international debut in Feb., redshirt sophomore Samantha Chang returned to Canada for a pair of international friendlies that forced her to miss a pair of spring matches with the Gamecocks. Carolina went 1-1-0 during that span and she returned for the exhibition against UNC on April 17.

Chang has continued to make waves on the international level, making her Senior National Team debut with Canada at the 2021 She Believes Cup against Argentina. After earning the roster spot in camp, the Mississauga, Ontario, native helped the Canadians win their match over Argentina. Chang entered the match in the second half with the score locked at 0-0 and helped keep Argentina out of goal and eventually Canada found the back of the net in extra time.

UP NEXT

The winner of the South Carolina-Montana match will take on the No. 13 seed Georgetown. The second-round match will take place on May 1, at 6 p.m. in Wilson, NC at the J. Burt Gillette Athletic Complex and streamed on NCAA.com.

'MATTER' IS THE MINIMUM PATCH

The Gamecocks chose to wear these patches because they want to use their platform as student-athletes to take a stand against systemic racism and social injustice. The team does not tolerate any form of racism and injustice and wants to do its part to make a change. Although these patches are small, they stand for a movement that is bigger than any game.

FEATURED GAMECOCKS

ZULLO SISTERS UNITE IN COLUMBIA

Luciana and Corinna Zullo didn't initially plan to compete on the same collegiate soccer team, but sometimes things just work out. The senior and freshman sisters on South Carolina's women's soccer team may be competing at the same position, but don't call it a sibling rivalry.

"It's really fun being on the same team again," said freshman Corinna Zullo. "It was fun being on the same team in high school. We play the same position, so it's good to look up to her, see how she's doing and try to improve myself."

"We have not raced in a while, which is something I think she wants to do," said senior Luciana Zullo. "We've always been very competitive, but we've always been very supportive of each other. We played a year together of high school soccer in New Jersey, and that was so much fun being on the field at the same time. Here, it might be a little bit different. It's interesting competing with your sister for playing time."

The year-long family reunion fits in well with the family atmosphere within the program, but each was recruited to play for the Gamecocks based on her own individual merits.

"Recruiting wise, I might have been in her ear a little bit," Luciana said. "I've had such a great experience here, and I knew that she would be able to thrive and grow here, not only as a player, but as a person. When she was being recruited, (associate head coach) Jamie (Smith) didn't know that she was my sister. He was actually at her game watching another player, and he looked at the roster and was like, 'you're kidding me?' It's good to know that she was looked at as her own person and not just as my little sister when she was being recruited."

SMITHS IN 20TH YEAR AT SOUTH CAROLINA

Now in their 20th year leading the South Carolina women's soccer program, head coach Shelley Smith and husband and associate head coach Jamie Smith have seen it all. After building a championship program, the Smiths are ready to see a lot more.

"We're enjoying it, and we're still young enough to do this and to want to do this," Shelley Smith said. "We have good relationships with players, and we enjoy the grind and the work that we do. We'll keep going as long as they'll have us."

The package turned out to be gift that keeps on giving. The program is now a perennial SEC championship contender and has been to the NCAA Tournament in 12 of the last 13 years, including three NCAA quarterfinals and the 2017 national semifinals at the College Cup. The Smiths have led the Gamecocks to three SEC Regular SEC Championships and a pair of SEC Tournament titles as well. It wasn't easy to bring the program up to that level.

"It was at the bottom of the SEC when we took over," Shelley Smith said. "They were 4-16 (1-8 in the SEC) the year before. I came from Rhode Island, and I thought the team here should be a lot stronger than what I had there, and it really wasn't the jump I was hoping for. There was some very good talent, but overall, it wasn't a collective group yet. They had to learn how to get along. They had to learn how to work for each other and push each other because there were definitely some talented kids, they just needed to come together as a team."

BY THE NUMBERS

0

South Carolina's matchup with Montana is the program's first time playing any team from the Big Sky conference. Montana is 1-3-0 all-time against teams currently in the SEC with its only win coming against Alabama, 1-0, in 1998.

6

The Gamecocks have won their last 6 NCAA Tournament matches against non-Power 5 programs. Carolina, under Shelley Smith, is 9-2-1 against non-Power 5 programs in the NCAA Tournament.

1

The 2020-21 NCAA Women's Soccer Tournament is the first tournament to entirely take place in one location. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, all matches will take place in the state of North Carolina.

300

The Gamecocks and Grizzlies will play in front of a total of 300 fans, maximum. That number is less than half the number of fans that the Gamecocks were allowed to play in front of at Stone Stadium this year.

25

The 2020-21 season marks the 25th season of South Carolina women's soccer. The program has won 319 matches in history, winning five SEC Championships along the way.

12

The Gamecocks have a total of 12 current professionals around the world that have come through the women's soccer program. The latest being Tatum Milazzo who signed with the Chicago Red Stars in April of 2021.

HINZ FAMILY TRADITION

In competing to be the one to fill the void left by the graduation of an All-American goalkeeper, Heather Hinz has big shoes to fill. The South Carolina sophomore is no stranger in trying to follow in the footsteps of an accomplished net-minder, as her older sister, Megan, played for four years at Michigan (2014-2017) and is now playing professionally for the NWSL's Sky Blue FC.

"When I was younger, I looked up to all of my sisters in different aspects," said Heather Hinz, who is the youngest of four sisters. "With sports, Megan seemed to be very serious about it, and I always admired how every time she puts her mind to something, she goes 100 percent."

"Seeing her go through the recruiting process, going through college, and even her pro experience has helped me a ton. It has brought us a lot closer because we can talk about a lot of these things that other people wouldn't understand. The fact that I have that kind of mentor is really lucky."

"Heather and I have always been super close," said Morgan Hinz, who is 24. "Our relationship has also changed a lot. I remember when she was first training in goal, I would coach her. I went off to college and then played overseas, and I come back, and she has figured out who she is. I always looked at her as my baby sister, but now we're really good friends. I talk to her every single day. Now we can lean on each other, like peers."

Heather Hinz is battling with freshman Taylor Fox for the starting job as South Carolina's goalkeeper after four-year-starter Mikayla Krzeczowski graduated last year. Fox started the first two games for the Gamecocks this year, but Hinz earned her first career start last Sunday against Kentucky and posted a clean sheet in South Carolina's 1-0 victory.

CHANG FULFILLS DREAM WITH CANADA

South Carolina midfielder Samantha Chang is living the dream, but the ability to do that has come through hard work, while overcoming some adversity along the way. The redshirt sophomore midfielder from Mississauga, Ontario, was called up to the Canadian National Team for the SheBelieves Cup in Orlando, Fla., last month and earned her first international cap, playing alongside some of her childhood heroes. After overcoming a torn ACL at the outset of her collegiate career, she serves as an inspiration to other young players.

"It really meant everything to me," Chang said of representing her country. "I've been dreaming about playing for the national team ever since I was a little kid. To get that call that I was coming to camp was pretty unexpected. I was super excited to get in there and train with some of my heroes growing up."

Chang previously played in the Canadian youth programs before she came to South Carolina. She represented Canada at the U20 level and participated in the U17 FIFA World Cup in Jordan in 2016 and won medals at the 2016 Concacaf U-17 championship and the 2014 Concacaf U-15 Championship. Having the opportunity to come to camp with the senior national team meant she would be along side some of the players she looked up to.

"Inspiring the next generation is something that I'm really passionate about. A huge thing for me is that I'm half white, half Asian, and my last name is Chang, so growing up, I never had an Asian role model on the women's national team. Asian people can make it at this level!"
