Environment and Social Impact Assessment / Environment and Social Management Framework for Coral Reef Eco-system Health Monitoring and Flood Protection and Wetland Conservation Projects

The Government of the Republic of Maldives is implementing a multi-donor Maldives Climate Change Trust Fund administered by the World Bank, and intends to apply part of the proceeds of this Trust Fund to payments under the contract for a consultancy to undertake Environment and Social Impact Assessment (ESIA) / Environment and Social Management Framework (ESMF) for two climate change-related projects (i) Coral Reef Eco-system Health Monitoring Project and (ii) Flood Protection and Wetlands Conservation Project. The objective of the coral project is to support the development of a stakeholder-based coral reef monitoring program and stakeholder awareness program aimed at improving the evidence base of critical coral reef systems and developing policy linkages with reef-dependent key economic sectors. The objective of the wetland project is to reduce flooding and increase in fresh water storage capacity of selected wetlands ecosystems and implement a methodology for conserving wetland ecosystems in Maldives.

The ESIA and ESMF studies for the projects will be carried in accordance with the Government of Maldives and World Bank safeguards policies. The studies will accomplish the following objectives.

- Determine the current status of the environment and environmental issues and risks that are already prevailing in the project sites;
- Determine key social and environmental issues associated with the interventions to be undertaken;
- Conduct an environmental and social impact assessment of the interventions to be supported by the project, identify potential environmental and social impacts associated with such interventions and recommend measures to mitigate impacts;
- Carry out an analysis of various stake holders associated with the project, identify their concerns with regard to environmental and social aspects, and recommend measures to mainstream these aspects into the project; and
- Develop an ESMF for the project, to ensure that environmental and social issues are effectively addressed in project design and implementation and to guide the intervention-specific ESIA that will depend on the scale and nature of the technology options to be identified during project implementation.
