1. BACKGROUND

The United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) at its COP 16 held in Cancun in 2011 approved a process to enable member states to formulate and implement National Adaptation Plans (NAPs) as a means of identifying medium- and long-term adaptation needs and developing and implementing strategies and programmes to address those needs. The Paris Agreement (2015) in its global goal on adaptation (Article 7) brought new elements and dimension to the climate change adaptation. Namely, enhancing adaptive capacity, strengthening resilience and reducing vulnerability to climate change, with a view to contributing to sustainable development and ensuring an adequate adaptation response in the context of the global temperature limit of less than 2°C. The UNFCCC’s Least Developed Countries Expert Group (LEG) on adaptation released Guidelines for NAPs (December 2012). Furthermore, the Green Climate Fund (GCF) has issued guidance on adaptation planning approaches.

The Republic of the Maldives is a Small Island Developing State (SIDS) and is one of the smallest atoll island nations globally. The government of Maldives has expressed concerns about the impacts of global warming on the country as the geographical characteristics of the country — comprising small, low-lying atoll islands — makes the Maldives extremely vulnerable to the negative impacts of climate change, particularly coastal erosion and sea-level rise. A 0.5 to 0.8 meter rise in sea level by 2100 — as predicted by global climate change models — would lead to a loss of most of the land area of the Maldives. As the islands of the Maldives are highly vulnerable to inundation, sea-level rise will also exacerbate the existing problems of beach erosion and salt-water intrusion, threatening the country’s limited freshwater resources.

The Government of Maldives has successfully obtained a grant of USD 2.85 Million from the GCF for a three-year project to build capacity to advance the NAP process in Maldives. UNEP is the Delivery Partner for the project with the Ministry of Environment, Climate Change and Technology (MECCT) of Maldives as a key partner.

The project entitled “Advancing the National Adaptation Plan of the Maldives” will be implemented by a small project team headed by a National Project Manager. The NAP project will support multi-sectoral, medium- to long-term adaptation planning and budgeting in Maldives and promote the integration of climate change adaptation aspects into development policies. Systems for developing and sharing climate risk and vulnerability information will be reinforced, and sustainable financing mechanisms for climate change adaptation initiatives are set to be developed.
