Authentic Korean cuisine starts here

About us

Over 75 years of Korean expertise

Brought to life in 1946, Sempio remain Korea's number one household brand. Made popular by our soy sauce and kimchi, we specialize in authentic fermented foods. Our mission is to continue creating delicious Korean flavors that can be used in cooking world-wide.

Quality and taste, uncompromised since the foundation

'I will never produce or sell products that my family would not eat'. Starting with these words from the founder, Sempio built the first ever R&D center specialized in plant-based fermentation and began to gain a number of industry-leading quality and safety certifications. Certified HACCP, SMETA, SQF, ISO9001, ISO14001, HALAL and KOLAS.

Created with industry experts worldwide

Sempio's branch offices are located in the United States, China and Spain - some of the culinary world's biggest influencers. From there, we collaborate with professional local chefs and influential communities, researching ways to innovate, educate and create new and exciting products everyday.

Facilities

With its HQ office located in the center of Seoul, Sempio operates four production facilities and an independent R&D center in South Korea, each one covering a specific product category to ensure a consistent product quality control, and also offer customized options to our clients.
