

Let's me tell you about "TROPICANA"

Our story

1902

The founder's family started coconut farming at Tapi basin, Surat Thani.

1988

After acquiring some business aptitude, Mr Suradej Ninek resigned from a private company and set up his own business. He ran a factory, manufacturing and supplying shoe soles to brands in different countries.

1997

An economic crisis from the Persian Gulf War put an end to the shoe-sole business, with 10 millions Baht of debt.

2003

With a strong determination and a never-quit mindset, Mr. Suradej returned to his hometown and realized that he actually had a particular local produce - coconut, the invaluable legacy of Tapi basin, his roots. Henceforth, he began to study how to extract and process coconuts into coconut oil. On his own initiative, he successfully discovered the manufacturing process that delivers the finest quality of TROPICANA's virgin cold-pressed organic coconut oil.

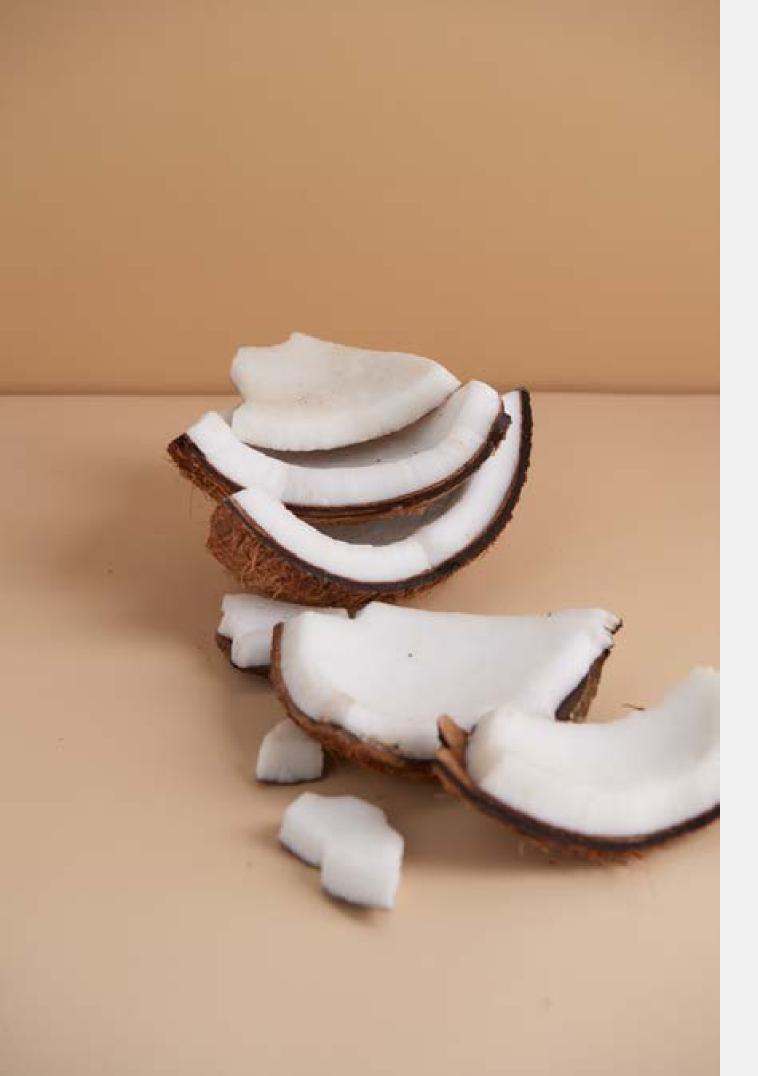

Where is our Coconut from?

The process begins with the selection of coconut plants from the "Tapee River" in the south of Thailand.

Why Tapee River?

- The original landscape of the founder which we has contact farming to certify and control our quality of coconut
- The river has connected with the sea which the water is enriched with nutrients for coconut trees
- This reason makes the coconut growth well and have big nut, thicker kernel suitable for coconut milk and coconut oil

Only Good Coconuts can't make the different
