

Nature provides.
We deliver.

TGL

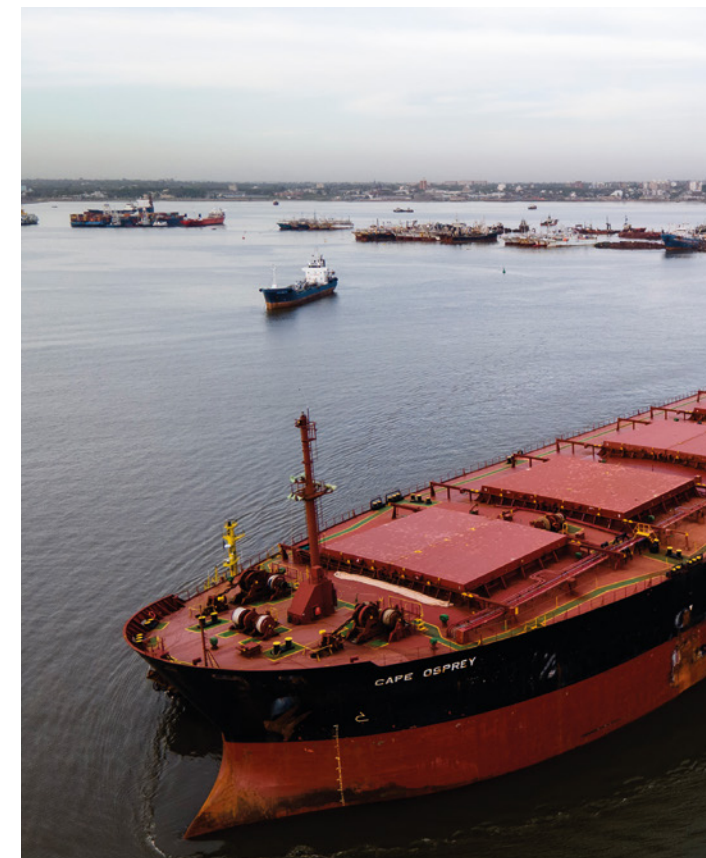

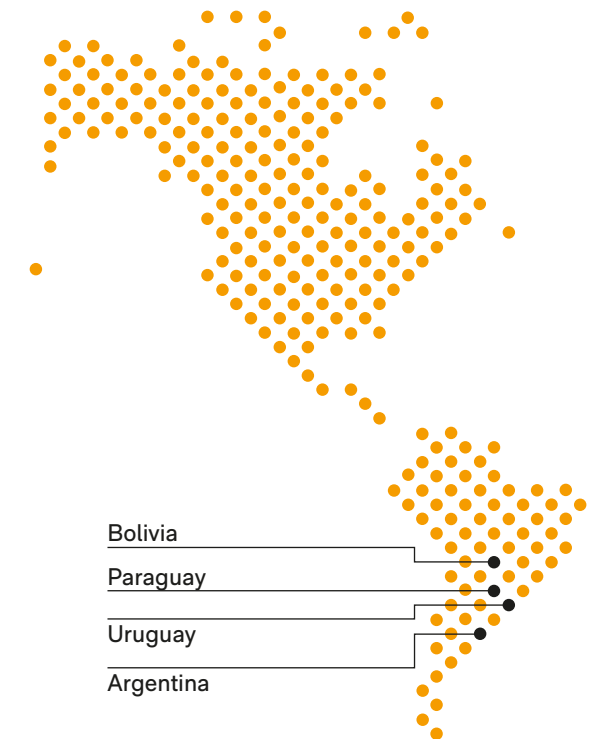

We get it.
We trade it.
We carry it.

We link producers with a really wide range of clients that have remarkably different scales and operate in varied industries in order to develop integrated supply solutions of agricultural and forestry raw materials and supplies from South America to the world.

We bring the world together based on what nature has to give.

We devote to connecting TGL's agricultural and forestry supply and other producers with the most distinctive needs of a remarkably wide range of: clients, end consumers and important retail chains; ranging from small artisanal producers to the most diverse industrial companies. That's why our business goes beyond sourcing; we develop comprehensive production, logistics and trading solutions from South America to the whole planet.

Our business

Production

We work with the land to provide clients with volume, variety and quality in every single continent.

Animal food supply importers at birth; our track record and passion for coming up with solutions led us to develop our own agricultural production and to diversify it; both to widen our offer in the local market and export it to the entire world.

We have weaved alliances with other regional producers over time and got involved in different industrial and productive process to grow our portfolio. As a result, we could consolidate a solid position that enables us, nowadays, to give our clients planning ability and certainty when it comes to supplying agricultural and forestry raw materials and supplies.

Trading

We connect a thriving multi-location production with key global markets.

We invest time and effort in exploring markets and seeking the right opportunities to make deals within the agri-forestry production universe, no matter the distance or how unique a need may be.

Therefore, an in-depth knowledge of customers' and suppliers' demands becomes the key in order to achieve it; as a matter of fact, we are always close to these players, seeking to build valuable alliances and open doors to achieve synergies that yield greater development and prosperity.

Logistics

We value what we produce alongside nature so highly that we also take charge of carrying it safely to its destination.

We know how to spot and bring the most efficient and safest means of transport together, so as for our freight and our suppliers' to reach their final destination safe and sound; always being under a strict follow-up, reaching the best cost-benefit relationship and complying with current standards and norms.

Besides, we are able to adapt our storage and freight solutions to each and every ally or client specific requirement and to the special features of the widest range of shipments. Together with our smart management of our productive flow; our experience in logistics matters enables us to ensure that goods reach anywhere, just in time and whenever it may be necessary.
