Full per-bank data, notes, and assets in the companion CSV.

How the scores are applied: every bank is rated on each activity using a simple five-level scale — 0 (no BTC adoption), 25 (announced, piloted, or offered only through a third party), 50 (launched, but limited in scope or availability), 75 (live at scale), 100 (market-leading). Ratings come from public information only: press releases, regulatory filings, and official disclosures. Within each category, activity scores are averaged; the six category scores are then combined by weight into the bank's overall 0–100 score. The global average is the unweighted mean across all 100 banks. Where a bank operates matters — some countries block banks from engaging with Bitcoin. Scoring involves judgment; corrections backed by public sources are welcome.

Column key

- # — index rank by adoption score

* Pinned: a bank smaller than the world's top 100 by assets, but too important as a Bitcoin adopter to leave out. Each pinned bank takes the place of the lowest-scoring bank on the list, so the index always covers exactly 100 banks.
