11.7

Of the turnovers forced, the Mountaineer defense also is tallying 11.7 steals per game, which ranks No. 1 in the league and No. 22 Nationally.

- With a win, the Mountaineers will win 14 conference games for just the third time since joining the Big 12 in 2013. The win total would be the most by head coach Mark Kellogg during his three seasons after winning 12 in 2024 and 13 in 2025. It is the most conference wins since winning 15 during the 2021 season.
- West Virginia (23-6, 13-4 Big 12) and Cincinnati (11-18, 6-11 Big 12) meet for the 19th time in program history. West Virginia is 13-5 all-time against the Bearcats, and 5-1 when playing games inside the Coliseum. The Mountaineers have won 10 straight meetings and are a perfect 6-0 since Cincinnati joined the Big 12 in 2024.
- The meeting is the second of the season, as WVU claimed the first on the road by a final score of 84-76. Five Mountaineers scored in double figures in the contest, led by Kierra Wheeler, who finished with 17.
- Five of the Mountaineers' losses this season have come at the hands of teams currently ranked inside the top 25 of the AP poll. In those games, the Mountaineers were outscored by a combined 22 points.
- WVU is averaging 76.6 points per game this season and allowing just 58.7 points from its opponents. The marks are the 33rd and 50th best in the country. Across Big 12 play, the Mountaineers are scoring 73.5 points per game and allowing just 60.8 points, which are the third and second best among conference foes.
- West Virginia's 17.9 scoring margin is the 17th-highest win margin in the nation. Additionally, WVU is forcing its opponents into 23.1 turnovers, the 11th best nationally, and has produced 11.7 steals a game, the 22nd best mark in the nation. Both marks are at the top of the conference. West Virginia has forced 21+ turnovers in 19 games and 12+ steals in 16 contests this season. WVU ranks 17th in the nation with a +6.72-turnover margin.
- West Virginia has four players scoring double figures this season, led by Gia Cooke with 14.7 points per game. She has scored double figures in 25 contests and has scored 20+ points in seven games. Wheeler has been a force scoring and on the glass with 13.4 points and a team-leading 7.3 rebounds. On the year, she has recorded seven double-doubles.
- Senior guard Jordan Harrison (12.7) and Sydney Shaw (11.5) are also averaging double figures this season. Shaw is leading the Mountaineers in threes this season at 40.1% and is making 2.5 per game. Riley Makaluskus has also found her rhythm from beyond the arc in conference play, shooting 54.1% with 20 makes on 37 attempts.
- Harrison averages 5.8 assists per game in conference play. The mark is the fourth best in the conference. She is the conference's steals leader with 64 in 17 games and is the only player averaging more than 2.5 per game at 3.76. She is the national premier defender after earning a spot on the Naismith Defensive Player of the Year Late-Season Team earlier this week.
- In the nonconference, the Mountaineers won three contests against Power Four opponents and reached the 10-win mark for the third straight season. It marks the seventh time since joining the Big 12 in 2013 that West Virginia has reached double-digit wins before entering conference play. During the last three seasons, the Mountaineers are 31-3 in nonconference action.
- The Mountaineers return five players from last years squad as Jordan Harrison, Sydney Shaw and Jordan Thomas each combined for 67 starts last year.
- Harrison earned all conference honors last year and was named to this seasons preseason all conference team. She adds a nomination on the Nancy Lieberman PG of the Year Preseason Team and a mention on the Naismith DPOY Watchlist.
- Additionally, six newcomers join the team to make up WVU's 11-woman squad. High-impact transfers like Gia Cooke (Houston), Kierra Wheeler (Norfolk State), Riley Makaluskus (Butler), Logan Johnson (Texas Tech) and Carter McCray (Wisconsin). The Mountaineers round out their lineup with freshman Madison Parrish.

Kellogg's First Two Seasons of Success

- Head Coach Mark Kellogg has brought the Mountaineers back into the national spotlight across his first two seasons in Morgantown. His leadership has led WVU to back-to-back NCAA Tournament appearances and 31 appearances in the Associated Press Top 25 polls, including all 21 polls a season ago for just the second time in program history.
- Kellogg led WVU to 25 wins in his first season, which was a program record for most wins by a first year head coach. The team finished fourth in the Big 12 regular season, made the NCAA Tournament, and reached the second round. WVU was ranked in the AP Top 25 nine times, ending the season ranked 24th. The 2024-25 season saw another 25 win season finishing again tied for fourth in the Big 12 and another second round NCAA Tournament finish, WVU was ranked as high as No. 12 throughout the season, ending at #21 in the AP poll.
- His teams have become known for a defensive pressure style that has consistently led the nation in turnovers forced and steals among power five programs. He has proven he is a coach who fosters and develops talent, helping JJ Quinerly earned AP All American honors (2024 & 2025), Big 12 Defensive Player of the Year (2024 & 2025), and was a finalist for the Naismith Defensive Player of the Year in 2025. She also became a WNBA draft pick under his coaching, becoming the programs 10th WNBA Draft pick.
- Kellogg is a proven winner, boasting 495-136 record and a .784-win percentage across 20 collegiate seasons. His win percentage is the fourth best in the nation among active coaches with 10 or more seasons at the DI level. His 50 wins in Morgantown are the most in program history across the first two seasons of a head coach.

Harrison's Senior Season

- Heading into her senior season, Harrison is expected to assume a larger leadership and scoring role on the team. With departures of players like JJ Quinerly, Harrison will be asked to carry more offensive load and make more aggressive scoring plays.
- In early October, she was selected to the 2025-26 Preseason All-Big 12 Team, marking her first preseason all-conference recognition. The Oklahoma City, Oklahoma native earned all-conference honors in each of her first two seasons as a Mountaineer and added a defensive team selection.

- Harrison serves as the Mountaineers consistency, playing in and starting all 66 games of her Mountaineer career and averaging over 30 minutes of action per game. Across two seasons, Harrison has totaled 898 points, 321 assists and 167 steals.
- She has managed a 1.6 A/TO ratio in two seasons and averaged 13.6 points per game, the second for a Mountaineer over the span.

Shaw's Roll Set to Expand

- After transitioning from a role player at Auburn to a full-time starter at West Virginia, Sydney Shaw made an immediate impact in her first season in Morgantown. Starting all 32 games for the Mountaineers, Shaw emerged as a reliable scoring threat and a cornerstone of the team's perimeter attack.
- Known for her sharpshooting ability, Shaw led WVU with 67 made three-pointers last season, stretching defenses and creating space for her teammates. But her contributions went far beyond the arc. She posted career highs across the board after averaging 11.4 points, 3.7 rebounds, 1.6 assists, and 1.8 steals per game. She shot an efficient 41.8% from the field and an impressive 88.1% from the free throw line.
- Shaw's growth was not just statistical. She evolved into a trusted offensive initiator, capable of creating her own shot and facilitating ball movement. Her defensive instincts also stood out, often guarding top perimeter threats and generating turnovers that led to transition opportunities. She finished the season with
- As the Mountaineers prepare for the upcoming season, Shaw is expected to take on an even larger role. With her blend of shooting, defensive tenacity, and emerging leadership, she will be a focal point on both ends of the floor. WVU will look to her not only for scoring and spacing, but also for poise and consistency in high-pressure moments.

More on the Returners

- This season will feature some familiar faces, with two of five starters from a season ago set to return to the court for the season. Sophomore Jordan Thomas joins Harrison and Shaw in returning this season with starting experience in the Gold and Blue as each have starts on an NCAA Tournament team.
- Collectively, the group of five returners has appeared in 340 games while making 209 starts. Harrison, Shaw and Thomas each combined for 67 starts last year.
- Thomas returns as WVU's top scoring interior presence, having averaged 6.2 points and 4.1 rebounds per game last season. Her physicality in the paint and ability to finish around the rim make her a reliable option in the post. With a year of Big 12 experience under her belt, Thomas is expected to take a leap forward in both production and consistency.
- Celia Rivière brings a steady veteran presence to the frontcourt. Averaging 3.3 points and 2.8 rebounds last season, she contributed valuable minutes off the bench and showed flashes of defensive versatility. Her experience and basketball

IQ will be crucial as WVU integrates new talent into the rotation.

- Woodley returns as a defensive specialist and energy player. She posted 3.9 points and 1.8 steals per game last season, often tasked with guarding the opponent's top threat off the bench. Her hustle and ability to spark momentum plays make her an invaluable piece of the Mountaineers' defensive identity.

New Faces, Big Potential

- Coach Mark Kellogg and his staff brought in six newcomers to finalize the 2025-26 WVU women's basketball roster including one graduate transfer, four juniors and one freshman.
- Six newcomers join the roster, including high-impact transfers like Gia Cooke (Houston), Kierra Wheeler (Norfolk State), Riley Makaluskus (Butler), Lughan Johnson (Texas Tech) and Carter McCray (Wisconsin). The Mountaineers round out their roster with Freshman Madison Parrish.
- The transfer class is touted as one of the best in the country, bolstering a combined 345 games played and 227 starts.
- Cooke is a dynamic scoring guard, joining WVU after a breakout season at Houston where she averaged 12.4 points, 2.5 rebounds, and 1.9 assists per game. She started 22 games and led the Cougars in scoring nine times, including a career-high 25 points against TCU. A former four-star recruit, Cooke brings a competitive edge and versatile offensive skillset to the Mountaineers' backcourt.
- Wheeler arrives in Morgantown as one of the most decorated HBCU players in recent years. She earned First Team All-MEAC and MEAC Defensive Team honors last season, averaging 15.8 points, 8.9 rebounds, and 2.4 blocks per game. A dominant post presence, Wheeler started all 34 games for Norfolk State and helped lead the Spartans to a MEAC title and NCAA Tournament berth. She has twice been named the MEAC Tournament Most Valuable Player.
- Makaluskus is a versatile forward with perimeter shooting ability, who played in 32 games with 23 starts last season at Butler, averaging 8.1 points and 2.8 rebounds. She earned Big East All-Freshman Team honors in 2023-24 and led the conference in three-point percentage (46.1%). Her size and shooting range make her a valuable stretch option in WVU's frontcourt.
- Johnson played in all 37 games for Texas Tech last season, averaging 5.5 points and 2.5 rebounds while shooting an efficient 52.3% from the field. A former ESPNW Top 100 recruit, she brings athleticism, defensive intensity, and scoring versatility. Johnson was a two-time TABC Player of the Year in high school and helped lead her team to back-to-back state titles.
- McCray is a physical forward who averaged 10.6 points and 7.1 rebounds last season at Wisconsin. She recorded five double-doubles and posted a season-high 22 points against Northwestern. As a freshman at Northern Kentucky, she was named Horizon League Freshman of the Year after averaging 15.7 points and 11.2 rebounds.
- The lone freshman on this year's roster, Parrish is a four-star recruit ranked No. 90 nationally by ESPN. She averaged 17.2 points, 3.0 assists, and 2.6 steals as a senior and earned multiple All-Ohio and

All-Conference honors. A combo guard with strong shooting and defensive instincts, Parrish is expected to contribute early in WVU's fast-paced system.

Thievery

The tactic resulted in turnovers and easy transition buckets. The Mountaineers have consistently ranked among the nation's most disruptive and efficient defensive units, helping fuel back-to-back 25-win seasons and NCAA Tournament appearances.
- The Mountaineers thrived on ball pressure and aggressive perimeter defense, often dictating tempo and forcing opponents into low-percentage shots. Their ability to convert defense into offense was a key factor in their transition game and overall scoring efficiency.
- Last season, the Mountaineers finished with the best turnover margin in the in the Big 12 and second best in the nation among power five programs at +7.91. They added 23.5 turnovers forced and 13.6 steals per game which were the most from a power five program. The effort led to allowing just 55.7 points per game, which led the Big 12 and ranked 15th nationally and second best among the power five.
- This season looks to be more of the same for the Mountaineers as WVU return the bulk of its production in steals from a season ago. Harrison (71), Shaw (57) and Woodley (54) combined for 181 steals last season, the most from any returning three in the nation.
